

MINERS TRAPPED IN OKLAHOMA BLAST

EXPECT ENTRY OF U. S. INTO WORLD COURT

Fifth Reservation Must Be Accepted at Geneva, Lawrence Thinks

FAVORABLE VOTE SEEN

Entry of America More Important to Europe Than Clause Itself

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington — Optimism that the United States will be accepted as a member of the world court has begun to prevail here after many months of doubt and skepticism due to a fear that the United States senate had so phrased the reservations as to make them unacceptable to the rest of the world and thus block American entry into the court.

The friendly reception given the first of the American reservations at Geneva has led to a belief here that all now will be accepted. The reasoning employed here is about as follows: First, the troublesome fifth reservation could not now be amended because of the temper of the senate, but there is no telling what another senate might do five or ten years hence, especially if the wording of the reservation is such as to block a movement for peace in a special emergency involving other nations in a possible war.

ADVANTAGE OF ENTRY
Second, the hypothetical case in which an American might be involved in the rendering of an advisory opinion is not even on the horizon, and may never arise. The disadvantage of a possible insistence which could block the rendering of an advisory opinion is offset by the advantages to the other nations of the world in having the United States a member at least of the permanent court.

Third, the record of the United States is not that of an obstructionist, and if the other governments ask the consent of the United States so that the world court can render advisory opinions in special cases, it is unlikely that America will claim an interest and exercise a veto simply to impede the work of the court. If, on the other hand, American public opinion should strongly oppose the rendering by the world court of an advisory opinion on something like immigration or the Monroe Doctrine, then the rendering of such an opinion in the face of American protests might cause an unfavorable impression on this side of the Atlantic as to encourage those who advocate withdrawal from the court. The league members have always been sticklers for sovereign rights and non-interference in internal questions and that is why they cannot logically object to America's desire to safeguard herself against advisory opinions on American questions without the consent of the United States being asked.

THE IMPORTANT TO EUROPE
The European governments plainly do not like some of the American reservations, but they have been convinced that American entry into the world court at this time is more important to the cause of world peace than technical objections which may never be met in a concrete case.

Politically, the victory of Senator Stanford of California, in winning a renomination on a world court platform after he has been vigorously fought by none other than Senator Hiram Johnson, arch foe of the court, has pleased the administration very much and this is regarded as an offset to the recent reversals of attitude by Senator Trammell of Florida, and Gooding of Idaho.

Fourth, the process of asking American consent and obtaining it is not going to be one of delay. The president is charged by the constitution with the responsibility of defining American policy abroad. It is taken for granted here that the president and secretary of state and not the senate will define whether an American interest is involved in a dispute. The Monroe Doctrine itself, which has often been called a key stone of American foreign policy, is a declaration by the chief executive and never has been subject to approval or disapproval by the senate, though many resolutions endeavoring to amplify and interpret the doctrine have been introduced.

Under the circumstances the department of state can informally answer any questions from the world court as to whether it consents to the rendering of an advisory opinion. It is even possible that the American jurist who sits on the court will at times confer with the American minister at The Hague and make sure that there is no dissent from the United States before an advisory opinion is rendered.

Blimp Journey Recalls Ill-Fated Shenandoah

Shenandoah "Broke Up" in Mid-air Just a Year Ago Friday in Ohio

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—After riding out in electrical thunderstorms during the greater part of the night, in pitch darkness, and soaked with rain, Lieut. W. A. Gray and his crew of four brought the army blimp TC-5 into safe landing at Scott field, Belleville, Ill., near here shortly after six o'clock Friday morning.

It was the first anniversary of the Shenandoah disaster, when that craft much larger than the TC-5, buckled and crashed on Ohio hills. It brought to an end a night of uneasiness on the part of many interested in the blimp.

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—Just a year ago Friday the giant dirigible Shenandoah, pride of the navy air service, "broke up" in mid-air, near Ava, Ohio, during a severe storm which swept over southeastern Ohio. Fourteen of the crew of 43 including commander Zachary Lansdown were killed.

For several hours prior to the wrecking of the "Daughter of the Stars," it was storm-buffed over an area of about 50 square miles. A line squall which struck the ship was directly responsible for its breaking up after having been weakened by the elements.

The Shenandoah had left the Lakehurst Air station at Lakehurst, N. J., the day before and was to have made a flight through the midwest. The ship, the only dirigible ever built in America was completely wrecked.

With a hastily deployed police cordon closing in, they parted and fled separate ways after shooting the clerk in a billiard hall, the last of three places held up within a few minutes time.

One commandeered a taxicab standing outside and was slain, as he sped toward the outskirts. In an exchange of shots with Patrolman Michael Flynn, himself seriously wounded. The other youth fled afoot and was captured by a patrol.

WERE NOT ACQUAINTED
The gunman killed was identified as Harvey Bold, 25, of Youngstown, Ohio, a lake sailor. His companion who later was reported to have said he had not known Bold before the two met over numerous drinks earlier in the night, was Rudolph Gustafson, of Halstead, Minn.

Chester Costenberger was shot down when he was slow to obey commands, by unusual circumstances, without some of the players in the crowded room halting their games. A few minutes before, some one had thrown two firecrackers through the back door, their explosion throwing the place into confusion. The games were resumed and when the shots rang out only a few persons looked around to see that the reports were not of firecrackers.

WIFE OF ACTOR SEEKS DIVORCE

Friends of Mrs. W. S. Hart Say She Has Joined Divorce Colony at Reno

Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—The Examiner says Winifred Westover Hart, estranged wife of William S. Hart, famous two-gun man of the movies, has joined the Reno divorce colony. Friends of Mrs. Hart are quoted as having stated she will remain in Reno until she obtains a decree. She is accompanied by her mother and young son, William S. Hart, Jr.

Winifred Westover and the actor were married late in 1921, but a rift soon appeared in their married life. The birth of a son failed to reconcile the pair and the actor and his wife finally separated. A contract was drawn up in which Hart created two trust funds, one for his wife and the other for his boy. Mrs. Hart was to receive the income from $103,000 and William, Jr., the income from $100,000.

A proviso in the contract enjoined Mrs. Hart from entering the films. A clause in the trust agreement specified that in the event that Mrs. Hart should obtain divorce the $103,000 held in trust would be turned over to her in cash, providing she had lived up to her agreement.

PHRASING OF CLAUSE FIVE IS OBSTACLE

Belgian Jurist Would Amend Reservation by Change of Wording

Geneva.—(AP)—Representatives of 38 countries holding membership in the world court resumed discussion Friday of the fifth and last of the reservations attached to America's adherence to the court.

In opening the session, President Van Eysinga said the first reading of the reservations should be completed during the day. He added the belief that a committee should be appointed to carry on the work during the sitting of the league of nations assembly.

Mr. Rolin, Belgian jurist, made a brilliant exposition of the juridical difficulties confronting acceptance of the fifth reservation, requiring American consent to action by the league council in seeking advisory opinions from the court on questions "in which the United States has or claims an interest." He declared, nevertheless, that he was convinced that conferees were nearer a complete understanding with the United States on this thorny point.

OBJECTS TO PHRASE
Referring to the east Carrelia case in which the world court declined to render an opinion because Soviet Russia was a non-member of the league, he objected, M. Rolin thought the phrase "in which the United States has or claims an interest" was difficult of acceptance and he preferred to have it changed to read "claims and has an interest." In other words, he wanted the United States to justify her claim to an interest.

Latin America again rallied to the support of the policy of approving the reservations when Senor Zumota of Venezuela, insisted that the conference should omit no endeavor to make the United States' adherence to the court an accomplished fact.

ARREST DRIVER FOR DRINKING

Autoist Collides With Bridge Railing and Then Hits Another Car

Caroming from the west approach into a truck coming from the opposite direction on the W. Lawrence-st. bridge Thursday night resulted in considerable property damage to two automobiles and the arrest of Walter Hagen, 220 W. Fourth-st., on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Owing to other business in local courts Friday the case was adjourned to Saturday morning. It was reported by Chief George T. Prim.

According to Patrolman Bliss Carnes and Motorcycle Patrolman Alfred Dunn the Wempeper machine first struck the bridge a terrific blow and then swerved into the path of traffic striking a truck driven by Clem Russell.

Neither man was injured. The front left wheel, fender, lights and radiator of Wempeper car were damaged, while the front of the truck and left running board carried the brunt of the accident when inventory was taken.

INDICT 32 FOR GRAND JURY IN CHICAGO, SEPT. 8

Chicago.—(AP)—Thirty-two judges and clerks of election were indicted Friday by the special vote fraud and crime grand jury, and a new special grand jury was ordered for Sept. 8.

In requesting another special grand jury to continue the investigation, passed from jury to jury for several months, Charles A. McDonald, special prosecutor, made the startling statement that "it is a fact that we are in a position to know who is responsible for the murder of William H. McSwiggan, assistant state's attorney."

The grand jury appended these statistics to report: 1,240 persons murdered from 1922 to the end of 1925, with seven hanged; 286 murdered in the first eight months of 1926, with five executions.

JACK BARS DANCING CABARET GIRLS FROM TRAINING CAMP RING

Atlantic City, N. J.—(AP)—Cabarets are barred from Jack Dempsey's training camp hereafter.

Arriving at his ring Thursday he found the stage monopolized by a dozen or so show girls dancing in skintight bathing suits to the tunes of a jazz band. Dempsey promptly ordered the entertainers off the platform.

"I'm sorry about the whole affair," Dempsey said Friday. "That sort of thing has no place in a training camp. I am here for business and nothing else."

ARREST MERCHANT IN CANTON CASE

Ben Rudner, Hardware Man, Taken into Custody Friday Morning

Massillon, Ohio.—(AP)—Ben Rudner, hardware merchant, was taken into custody here Friday morning by an officer of the Stark-co court in connection with the inquiry into the murder of Don R. Mallett, Canton publisher, on July 18.

He was taken immediately to Canton where he with Louis Mazer and Patrick Eugene McDermott, was indicted Friday by the Stark-co grand jury for the first degree murder of Mallett, on July 16. Rudner was taken into custody shortly before the grand jury made its report to Judge Abram W. Angler.

Later it was announced at the sheriff's office that Rudner had been arrested under a capias issued by Judge Angler at the request of Prosecutor C. B. McClintock. The order stated that the charge on which Rudner is held is first degree murder, based on a forthcoming indictment.

Mazer, former Canton pool room proprietor, was formally charged with the murder in a warrant issued on Aug. 16. He is at present in the Cuyahoga-co jail, Cleveland, and is held on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law.

McDermott, of Nanty Glo, Pa., and Cleveland, is at large, having been sought throughout the nation since July 30 as "keyman" in the murder mystery.

MYSTERY WOMAN BEGINS CHANNEL SWIM ATTEMPT

Cape Gris Nez, France.—(AP)—A mystery woman entered the ranks of the channel aspirants Friday. Appearing suddenly and giving the name of Miss Mona MacLaren of England, she entered the water at 5:10 Friday morning, declaring she would attempt to set a new time record for the swim.

Speculation ran high as to her actual identity and there was a persistent rumor that she was a well-known London physician with offices in Harley-st., who had trained three years at a secluded spot on the English coast in preparation for her try at the channel.

LISTS PARDON HISTORY FOR GOV. BLAINE

Total of 480 Acts of Clemency Granted by Executive, Hannan Says

Madison.—(AP)—Statements were issued from two official sources here Friday in connection with the declarations made in the political campaign. J. T. Donaghey, state highway engineer, stated that "it has come to my attention that a letter on the letterhead of Melges and Cope, signed by H. G. Meigs, is being circulated among highway officials and highway contractors. This letter was sent out without my knowledge and the mention made of my name was unauthorized."

Mr. Donaghey was reported to have been named in the letter as having helped "convert" Governor Blaine to a good roads program.

In awarding highway contracts Mr. Donaghey said: "The only consideration that will have weight are the bids submitted and the bidders' ability to perform the work promptly and well." He said the policy of the department is "to get the most value from the funds expended."

HANNAN MAKES STATEMENT

John J. Hannan, president of the state board of control said in part: "From 1921, when John J. Blaine became governor, until the first Monday in January, 1925, when the last report to the legislature was made the total number of acts of clemency by the executive was 480 and not 500 as alleged in the letter of Mrs. F. J. Rucks."

"Of these 480 there were 36 cases of restoration of citizenship, that of persons who had completed their sentences, have been well behaved for at least a year outside of prison and who were restored to civil rights. These were not pardons nor reprieves of crime."

351 PARDONS GRANTED

"Thirty-three of the clemencies were sent to boys' and girls' industrial schools or county jails, he said. "This shows the total of absolute pardons, conditional pardons, commutation of sentences and reprieves of persons sent to the institutions for punishment of felons to be 351 and not 500 stated by Mrs. Rucks," he stated. He asserted a "misrepresentation of the record" probably was handed to Mrs. Ruck "by an incompetent former employee of the state."

HAGEN AND PARTNER ARE DEFEATED AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Frances Gallett, paired with Herb Gardner, former state amateur champion, defeated Walter Hagen and Frances Hadfield at the new Blue Mount course, Gallett took a 72 for the round. Hagen 73. Gardner a 77 and Miss Hadfield 82. The greens puzzled Hagen somewhat and he did not make many of his thrilling putts, but was usually down in two. Miss Hadfield played a very good game especially on the greens.

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED IN PENNSYLVANIA WRECK

Baltimore, Md.—(AP)—Disregard of signals by the crew of the locomotive of an eastbound freight train was responsible for the accident on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad Thursday night in which three trainmen were killed and several other persons injured near Foley, Pa. It was stated at the executive offices of the railroad here Friday.

Hotel Man Shoots Pretty Girl Companion and Self

Lexington, Ky.—(AP)—Kelly C. Kirtley, 70, wealthy restaurant and hotel man who formerly lived in Fayette-co, Kentucky, killed himself shortly before 7 o'clock Friday morning in the bathroom adjoining his room in a hotel here, after he had slain Miss Mildred McDaniel, 26, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

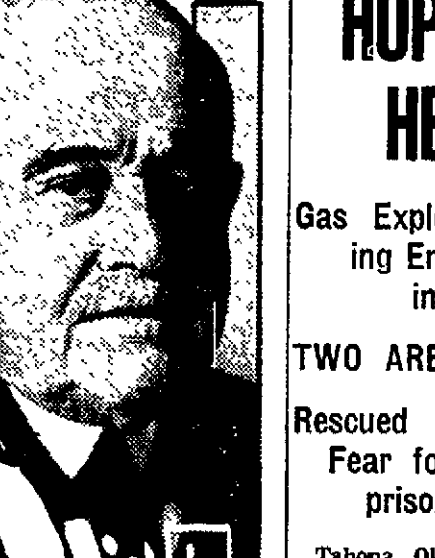

The girl, a pretty red-haired telephone operator of Brooklyn, who had accompanied Kirtley on a motor trip to Lexington was shot while she was sleeping in the same bed with Miss Alma Gregory, of the same address in Brooklyn.

The two young women had registered at the hotel Wednesday as Alma and Mildred Gregory, both of New York City. According to Alma Gregory they posed as cousins and Kirtley as their uncle.

The two had quarreled Thursday night over the size of a stone in a diamond ring which Kirtley had given Mildred, Alma declared.

Shortly before 7 o'clock Friday morning Alma declared, she was awakened by the sound of a pistol standing beside the bed with a pistol in his hand, while Mildred still lay beside her, a stream of blood trickling on the pillow from a hole in her head.

Mr. Kirtley went back into the bathroom and I saw him through the door as he raised the pistol to his head and fired," Alma stated.

William B. McKinley, retiring senator from Illinois is reported critically ill in a sanatorium at Martinsville, Ind. He was reported weaker Friday morning and did not seem mentally clear as on previous days, said a bulletin by Dr. R. H. Egbert his attending physician.

PROBE CAUSE OF CAR WRECK IN MICHIGAN

Question, Motorman in Collision Which Resulted in Eight Deaths

Monroe, Mich.—(AP)—William Owen of Toledo, veteran motorman will be questioned by officials of the Detroit Union Railway company, as to why he failed to wait on a siding for the passage of a southbound car on the same line, in an effort to determine responsibility for the collision of the cars near here Thursday which resulted in the loss of eight lives and injury to more than twenty-five other persons.

Those killed are Miss Elizabeth Burns, 24, Blissfield, Mich.; Dr. C. T. Southworth, Monroe, Mich.; W. A. Rooney, Sandwich, Ont.; A. W. Heber, Detroit; J. E. Ferguson, Toledo; Jacob Huber, Toledo; Joseph Rosenthal, Dundee, Mich.; and Ben Fitch, Detroit.

FAILED TO WAIT

While officials declined to place responsibility pending a thorough investigation, they said there was a standing order for the motorman of the northbound car, of which Owen was in charge, to await passage of the southbound limited at the siding at Pine. He passed a local at the point, it was said, but apparently forgot that the limited was due.

Owen, who has been a motorman on the same line for 15 years, jumped from his car before the crash and was only slightly injured, after treatment at a local hospital he proceeded to his home in Toledo.

IMPACT IS TERRIFIC

The two cars, heavily laden with passengers crashed on a curve, traveling approximately 40 miles an hour. The force of the impact was terrific and was heard a distance of more than a mile. Both cars were telescoped into such a compact mass of wreckage that it was necessary to cut them apart with acetylene torches to complete search for bodies.

Every pound limit in the vicinity and all first aid facilities were pressed into service after the accident. The dead were removed to undertaking establishments where identification was established. The injured, many of whom are in a critical condition were taken to local hospitals.

The explosion at the mine occurred shortly before 10 o'clock Friday morning affecting three entries. About 150 men are employed.

EXECUTE THREE OHIO MURDERERS

Men Die Calmly in Triple Electrocution at Penitentiary at Columbus

Columbus, O.—(AP)—John Bryant, negro, Richard Rhoades and John Hedrick, white, all of Pomeroy, were electrocuted in the Ohio penitentiary Thursday night for the slaying of James McCumber, near Pomeroy, March 15.

It was Ohio's first triple execution. Exactly 31 minutes after the first of the condemned men had been strapped in the electric chair the third was pronounced dead.

Bryant, who the other two said, had paid them $30 to kill McCumber, went to his death first. A few minutes later Rhoades was electrocuted. Shortly after his body had been removed from the chair, Hedrick was strapped in.

ALL CALM AT DEATH
The men died calmly, none of them professing innocence. As the death hood was fastened over Hedrick's face, he said: "I told the truth in this case."

Bryant's only comment as he was seated in the chair was "praise God."

Rhoades appeared interested in the manner in which he was being fastened to the chair and after looking about the death chamber, spoke to several acquaintances among the witnesses.

A large picture of Herman G. Saecker, president of the industrial board of education for 11 years, was built into the wall panel of the main corridor of the vocational school this summer as a memorial to Mr. Saecker. The aim of the school was to have this memorial not only an accessory to the school but an actual part of it, thus the picture now forms a panel built between two art glass windows and between the two offices of the school.

Mr. Saecker served as a member and as president of the Appleton high school board of education before the building of the vocational school and had been actively interested in public education as a service to Appleton for 35 years before his death. He

MOTORISTS LIKE APPLETON'S FREE PARKING SPACE

Few Cities Offer as Good
Facilities for Automobiles,
Visitors Say

Appleton, according to tourists—especially commercial men who are used to facing the multitudinous problems of parking while covering their territory in automobiles, has won considerable distinction through being one of the few cities in the middlewest that supplies a convenient parking center without gouging the motoring public in excessive charges.

The lot at the corner of N. Oneida and Washington-sts. provided by the Wisconsin Traction L. & P. Co. has virtually become a parking Mecca for strangers to whom the varying ordinances of the cities through which they pass cause some confusion in their minds as to how, when, where—and how long—they can park their cars.

MOSTLY VISITORS
Incidentally the Appleton business man or woman has found it a convenient downtown storage lot for their cars when not in hourly use.

A check, however, of the automobiles parked at this point on any day will usually reveal that the courtesy of the lot is extended in the main to out of state or cars from other cities in Wisconsin. Space is provided for probably 50 to 75 machines were they carefully aligned.

"It is a distinct relief," one tourist said Thursday, "to visit a city the size of Appleton and be able to temporarily dispose of your car without the aggravation of being molested by some attendant who demands anywhere from 10 cents an hour down to a flat rate of 25 cents to half a dollar for parking space."

"Another thing," he continued, "that is particularly pleasing about this city is that the free lot is so conveniently situated. As a rule in centers where parking has become a problem such rental lots as may be found are in isolated districts, or if located within blocks of the business district the charge is exorbitant to the point of resembling highway robbery without a gun."

In a country where a motorist traveling in a straight line for any given distance can find many contradictions in the traffic rules of the various cities through which he may pass tourists declare that it is a positively sanguine experience to reach a community where free parking space is available and where uniform traffic rules are enforced as to street parking and arterial laws.

MAY HOLD FAIR TO FINANCE COTTAGE

Rainbow Veterans Consider
Ways to Raise Money to Pay for Project

That a carefully planned and executed indoor fair or carnival may supply the medium to raise funds for the building of a cottage on lots owned on Lake Winnebago by the Appleton chapter of the Rainbow Division is being seriously discussed as feasible by members of the organization, it was reported Thursday.

Details of such a project will probably be threshed out at the next regular monthly meeting, it was said.

Advocates of the plan point out that

PREPARE Y. M. C. A. GYM FOR OPENING IN FALL

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and its equipment is being put in order for the fall opening which will take place early in October, after the membership campaign. The gymnasium has been closed all summer and no classes have been held. Lines on the floor, the baskets and bounding boards are being painted and the equipment is being oiled and repaired.

46 ASK FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES LAST MONTH

Cupid had a busy month in Outagamie-co during August when 46 applications for marriage licenses were filed at the office of County Clerk John E. Hantschel. In July less than 25 applications were made.

The armory would supply sufficient floor space for such a venture at a moderate cash outlay. The sum necessary for building, they say, is not so great but what it would seem reasonable to suppose that the profits of a three nights to a week jubilee would amply cover the costs of erecting a modern building.

By holding a mid-winter or spring festival the burden of a few enthusiasts standing the brunt of the expenses for the organization would be eliminated and the public so inclined would be able to participate without being directly solicited for funds, members said.

The chapter estimates that a building to meet their needs could be built for approximately $1,000.

Look First

The only quick-cooking
oats with this flavor is
"Quick Quaker"

FLAVOR is the all-important point in food. In oats it is probably more important than in any other.

That is why people who once taste the toasty richness of Quaker Oats are spoiled thereafter for all others.

Quaker flavor is unique, toasty and delightful. No other oats offers it to you. Some 50 years spent perfecting it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins and this "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

For your own sake, say "Quaker" when buying oats. Two kinds now at groceries: Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes) and Quaker Oats as always.

THE SANITARY DISTRICT AUDIT

The Chicago Sanitary district board spent $1,606,400, to support Chicago's right to divert water from Lake Michigan, according to an audit of district records sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, and recently made public. This huge sum was spent in the lake level fight during 1923, 1924 and half of 1925. Appleton, in common with other cities in Wisconsin and Michigan, opposed Chicago's water diversion which was declared illegal by the United States supreme court.

Of the $1,606,400 spent by the Sanitary district in the lake level fight the audit shows that $522,216 went for the services of special engineers and attorneys; $247,787 for "traveling expenses, carfare, meals and entertainment"; $140,683 for "publicity and advertising"; $30,603 for printing and photography; and $624,875 for payroll besides other small items. The audit contained a list of 43 legislators, politicians and relatives of politicians and labor union officials to whom a total of $261,807 was paid.

The audit also showed that a large number of persons were added to the district payroll a few weeks before each election in 1924 and were laid off a few days after each election. The auditors found that the same persons came back on the payrolls at each recurring election and suggested that consideration should be given of the value of services given by these employees.

One of the features of the report is the large number of members of the Illinois state legislature placed on the district payroll while the lake level fight was in progress. In regard to payments made to legislators and aldermen there is a question as to whether the state law was violated with respect to public officials, appearing on two payrolls.

This audit bears out conclusively the charge of Wisconsin diversion opponents that the Chicago Sanitary district has been spending a large sum of money for propaganda in behalf of water diversion. It is such tactics as these that Wisconsin and other lake states must fight if they would save the lake levels.

Chicago has been unscrupulous and has stopped at nothing in its fight to take 10,200 cubic feet of water per minute from Lake Michigan for its drainage canal. It has tried in every conceivable way to legalize this water steal. It has brought delegations from virtually every state in the Mississippi River valley to Chicago and entertained them lavishly and filled them with propaganda for a nine foot waterway from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico. This has been done, not because Chicago economically feels the need of such an outlet, but to create sentiment in these states for further diversion of Lake Michigan water to be used in disposing of Chicago's sewage. Chicago has spent thousands of dollars trying to popularize a nine foot waterway to the sea, but the public with few exceptions, is wise to the move. Chicago will not materially benefit from such a canal nor will the middle-west benefit. There is a large system operated on the Mississippi river now and it has been for three or four years, and its receipts and tonnage handled are very small and leave a serious doubt as to the future development of this project.

They also are using the argument that the completion of such a waterway would increase the value of land between Chicago and New Orleans by hundreds of millions of dollars, which would more than pay for this project. This is mostly bunk, and is being used merely to create sentiment among the gullible citizens in the Mississippi valley. Chicago, has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars trying to legalize her water steal, but the situation in its main aspects is the same as it was before this orgy of spending started. If Chicago's business men and politicians are as astute as has been popularly believed, why did not they apply this $1,600,000 on a sewage disposal plant instead of spending it for "silly propaganda"? Chicago will eventually have to build a sewage disposal plant and it might as well save its money and start now, for by so doing it will be much farther ahead financially and in goodwill because the lake states are determined to leave no stone unturned to win the diversion fight and stop this theft of water which is endangering investments of millions of dollars in steamships and other equipment necessary to carry on lake trade. Rates of many important commodities, particularly coal, will be greatly increased in the years to come unless this fight is won, because by the diversion, Chicago is lowering the level of the lakes to such a point that coal vessels will no longer be able to carry capacity cargoes into the ports. Involved in this fight is not only millions of dollars, but the right of the lake to carry on its water-borne commerce unhampered and untrammelled.

IN SEARCH OF SPEED

It is puzzling to know just what may be gained, in any practical way, by exceeding the speed of 278.48 miles an hour in the air. That is the present record, established by Florentin Bonnet of the French army, who bettered the mark of 266.6 made in 1923 by Lieutenant Alfred J. Williams, Jr., of the United States army. Now Lieutenant Williams has been granted an official leave of absence from the army for the purpose of trying to establish a new world's record and regain the title of the world's fastest human.

But what practical end will have been served if Lieutenant Williams should make, say 280 miles an hour, enough to regain the title? Will that help airplane designers any more than the information obtained by flying at 278.48 miles an hour? Very little, if any, we should say. Let us give Lieutenant Williams credit for great daring, but let us also admit frankly that he is not going to try to beat the mark of Bonnet for the sake of what it will do for aviation, or even for the prestige it might give the United States army, but merely for the personal glory he will get out of the venture and the publicity he will obtain thereby.

Long ago Lieutenant Williams, who is recently married, announced his intention of quitting the flying game and practicing law. If he does so aviation will lose a splendid exponent, no doubt, but perhaps it would be just as well for him, personally, if he fails to break Bonnet's speed mark.

"We've given the two kids a drawer in the trunk. That's all the space mother could find. And, after they've packed it up full of their junk, the rest of their things stay behind."
"Course mother needs all of the rest of the space for dresses, for knickerbockers and such. She's made out her list and each thing has its place. Oh, no, she's not takin' so much."
"And me? Well, you know, I am only a man. I figure in lastly, I guess. The best I can do, is the best that I can. I'll send all my things by express."

A GUARANTEED GOUTER TREATMENT

A lot of people, whether they have thick neck or not, seem to have a thick head. Such people cannot comprehend, until they have been told 47 times that no remedy or treatment can be guaranteed to cure anything. You see these thick headed folk know so many things which ain't so, and among these things they know that many remedies or treatments come with a written or printed guarantee. Another thing these sapheads know is that all sorts of nostrums, good and bad, have carried on the label these many years the misleading, tricky, typically Yankee legend: "Guaranteed under penalty of money back." The government in these deceptive words, aids and abets the profitable business of defrauding the unwary public, that is the reason why the word "guaranteed" was incorporated in that infamous legend, "Yankee fakery." It runs through our American business ethics.

This is the impressive "guarantee" of the gutter treatment alluded to, a document printed in gold and blue and adorned with a serial number and a blue and yellow ribbon:

"If after taking our treatment eight months in the manner recommended by us, and our suggestions in regard to the treatment have been followed out; and if you have written one letter every 10 days telling us of your condition and have not obtained satisfactory results; we, the undersigned, do hereby agree to extend the time of your treatment until we are convinced that we cannot obtain satisfactory results for you...." and so on, until the poor simple prospect signs on the dotted line in sheer dupe. And a Michigan lawyer can't convince the concern that his client did not obtain satisfactory results so what chance has a mere boob who purchases the "treatment?"

This "guarantee" would be funny if it were not for the seriousness of the harmful effects of the disguised larder of sodium and potash in the "treatment." It resembles the "guarantee" of the old time quack who used to give his dupes a signed agreement to treat "em 'until cured"—as long as they kept paying in the weekly or monthly stipend for the "treatment."

Not even the best physician living can honestly guarantee to cure anything or anybody—but, shucks, what's the use of saying this for the thirty-second time? The thick headed people will not comprehend it until we say it 15 more times.

Not in the letter of the law, nor even in the spirit of the law in this country, but in all reason and fairness, it is presumptuous evidence of a humbug when anybody does pretend to guarantee anything to cure anything.

But don't laugh, boys, they're biting. A good many people with thick heads and presumably thick necks actually purchased this "guaranteed home treatment." That is to laugh, but before you start laughing try a couple of snickers. Snicker No. 1—the minimum price, all cash in advance, for this "guaranteed treatment" is—aw, guess again—200 berries! Two hundred of those little metal discs which go before every other consideration in dear old Yankee land.

Snicker No. 2 comes when a victim complains that the results are unsatisfactory and receives from the company another batch of medicine and advice.

What's New for Fall---for suits ---for men?

The answer could nicely be—"what isn't?"

For in cloth and woollens—shades and patterns—luster of fabric—industry of design—shapes of lapels—sharpening of creativeness—you'll recognize no similarity to anything you saw at lake, mountain or resort this summer.

Indeed, so different were the models of last summer that comparing them to these new Schmidt suits would be like comparing the costume of Helen of Troy to the afternoon gown of a Helen of Troy, N. Y.!

EAGLES FLOCK TO GREEN BAY

Appleton Men Help Put Bay Aerie Back on Its Feet

Between 100 and 200 members of Appleton Aerie No. 574, Fraternal Order of Eagles, are expected to join in a motor caravan to Green Bay with the Appleton aerie's drum corps to put on the work next week when reorganization of the Green Bay aerie is brought to final fruition.

For some time past the Green Bay chapter had been inactive until recently when 18 new members, including a judge, the mayor with other city officials, and the district attorney of Brown-co, were initiated.

The Appleton drum corps, it will be remembered, won first prize from a large field of contestants at the annual state convention at Plymouth on June 19.

Although it is understood that a large number will make the trip final arrangements will not be completed until word has been received from Green Bay as to what evening the meeting is to be held.

A rehearsal will be held in Eagles hall Tuesday night, it was announced.

POLICE HUNT FORMER EMPLOYE IN ROBBERY

Fond du Lac—Police are hunting for a transient farm hand who, they believe, can throw some light on the robbery Tuesday night at the home of John Vielig, 83, town of Lamartine farmer.

Vielig, whose home was robbed of $3,000 and jewelry after he had tried unsuccessfully to drive away the bandit, had paid off the farm hand earlier in the day and it is believed that Vielig's former employee that the farmer kept a large sum of money in a safe in the house.

Mrs. Vielig, who was found suffering from exhaustion and shock sometime after the robbery, is somewhat better Thursday. She attempted to bring help while her husband was grappling with the bandit.

SWIMMING POOL WILL CLOSE IN ONE WEEK

The municipal swimming pool located at the city filtration plant on W. Water-st, will remain open to the public for one more week, it was reported at the plant Friday. As the days grow cooler the number of swimmers decreases according to Ted Bleier, supervisor of the pool.

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BAND IS COMING HERE

Sousa's Great Organization Opens Community Artist Series

John Philip Sousa and his one hundred famous bandmen will be in Appleton Thursday, Oct. 14 at Lawrence Memorial chapel. This concert will be the first of the annual Artist series sponsored by Lawrence conservatory. Sousa's band is one of the few typically American musical organizations. The enthusiasm and admiration of crowds have been the praise of this band for many years, and it has been honored by the praise of music critics and music lovers over the entire country.

The program for the concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel this year will include many selections never before heard in Appleton. "Sesqui-Centennial Exposition March" has attained great popularity with Sousa audiences. Others are "The Gridiron Club," "The Pride of the Wolverines," and "The Black Hussar Troop March."

Miss Marjorie Moody, a charming soprano, accompanies the organization this year, and has been well received by her audiences. Another principal of the Sousa group is Miss Winifred Bambrick, a harpist. The instrumental soloists are especially fine according to critics of the Sousa concerts in other cities.

LITTLE CHANGE IN ENROLLMENT

Junior High Schools Have About as Many Pupils as Last Year

Junior high school students for 1926 and 1927 will number about the same as last year, according to reports of principals of the three schools on pre-school registration of students. The freshman class at Roosevelt school may not be as large as last year. A. H. Osterhaus, principal, said, but it probably will have a normal registration. The ninth year class was unusually large in 1925, it was said.

Roosevelt school has approximately 100 students registered in the seventh and in the eighth grades and about 120 in the ninth grade. Neither the Wilson nor the McKinley schools were able to make a report on numbers as programs of former students were made out last spring, and these students will not formally register until Tuesday morning.

Have To Know Ways Of Fish To Get Them Now

BY B. A. CLAFIN

The heavy rain of the week ending August 21, slowed up the fishing in most of our waters so that, to achieve even mediocre results, required persistence coupled with a keen knowledge of what to offer the finny fighters. Although we were aware that conditions would be against us, we packed the tackle box and set out on a trip the beginning of last week.

which consumed seven days, and which took us through seven of our northern counties. We visited a number of famous lakes and streams in Florence, Vilas and Oneida-co., but it was not until we hit Birch lake, some fourteen miles south of Minocqua, that we encountered real fishing.

At Little Spider lake, six miles north of Woodruff on highway 10, we took some Small Mouth bass but they were of small size so we went on up to Trout, Plum and Muskellunge lakes, but conditions here were also bad. Then, after a try for Wall-eyes on Arbor Vitae, where we landed three fairly good specimens, we decided to shift operations.

Accordingly we took highway 10 south from Minocqua to Birch lake. Prospects looked brighter here and we pitched our tent for a stay over. Birch is not a large lake, its length being about two miles and its width perhaps a half mile, but its intensely green color at once denotes great depth. It is one of the Eagle chain of lakes and discharges its water into Tomahawk river, which in turn flows into the Wisconsin. We knew from that that it contained muskies but we were not looking for them as much as we were for big Small Mouth bass, and Birch lake has them.

We procured a boat, and along toward evening we began fishing. On the way across to the outlet we trolled using a number six spoon and landed a musky weighing about five pounds. This gamey fighter was under size and we reluctantly released him.

Arriving at the outlet we found acres of lily pads which appeared to us as more likely to harbor Oswego than Small Mouths but we soon learned differently. We threw various "plugs" along the edge of the lily pads for half an hour but landed only two Northern pike of rather small size. Finally we hooked on a new lure. At the very first cast there was a vicious rush and we were fast to a three pound Small Mouth. In quick succession we took three more, all good sized, and then, by way of experiment decided to try a Baby Crab plug, again we scored and from then until darkness ended the sport, the fun was fast and furious. We took bass as fast as we could get a baby crab out to the lily pads. These bass are weedless and they are bass getters.

AUGUST WARMER AND WETTER THAN MONTH LAST YEAR

Average Temperature Was Higher and More Rain Fell This Year

Cool weather and rain characterized the month of August in 1926 as compared with August 1925, according to the weather reports kept by the Schleifer Hardware Company. The maximum temperature, 90 degrees above zero, was the same for both years, but in 1925 this extremely high temperature was reached on the twenty fifth of the month and in 1926 on Aug. 3.

Minimum temperatures for the two years were very close, the low temperature for 1925 being 15 degrees above zero on August 21 and for 1926, 48 degrees above zero on Aug. 17. The average low temperature for August 1925 was 61.3 degrees and for 1926 61.9 degrees. The high temperature average for 1925 was 81.8 degrees and for last year 79.8 degrees.

During the past month, 3.68 inches of rain fell as compared to 2.16 inches for August 1925. One less "fair" day was recorded for 1926 than 1925, there being 21 "fair" weather reports last year and seven days when either "rain" or "cloudy" were reported.

AUTO HORNS SEND CAR ON ITS LAST JOURNEY

Chippewa Falls—With more than 50 automobiles escorting him out of the city, the last car to be run on the Eau Claire-Chippewa Falls interurban line left this city at 12:45 a. m. Wednesday. An order permitting discontinuance of the service was signed recently by the railroad commission, on application of the Northern States Power Co. Motor bus service will replace the cars.

The last car was crowded, pedestrians being recruited to send the last car on its way in gala fashion. Young men and their sweethearts rubbed elbows with old timers and veteran employees of the company who had helped inaugurate the interurban line 28 years ago.

Among the passengers was John

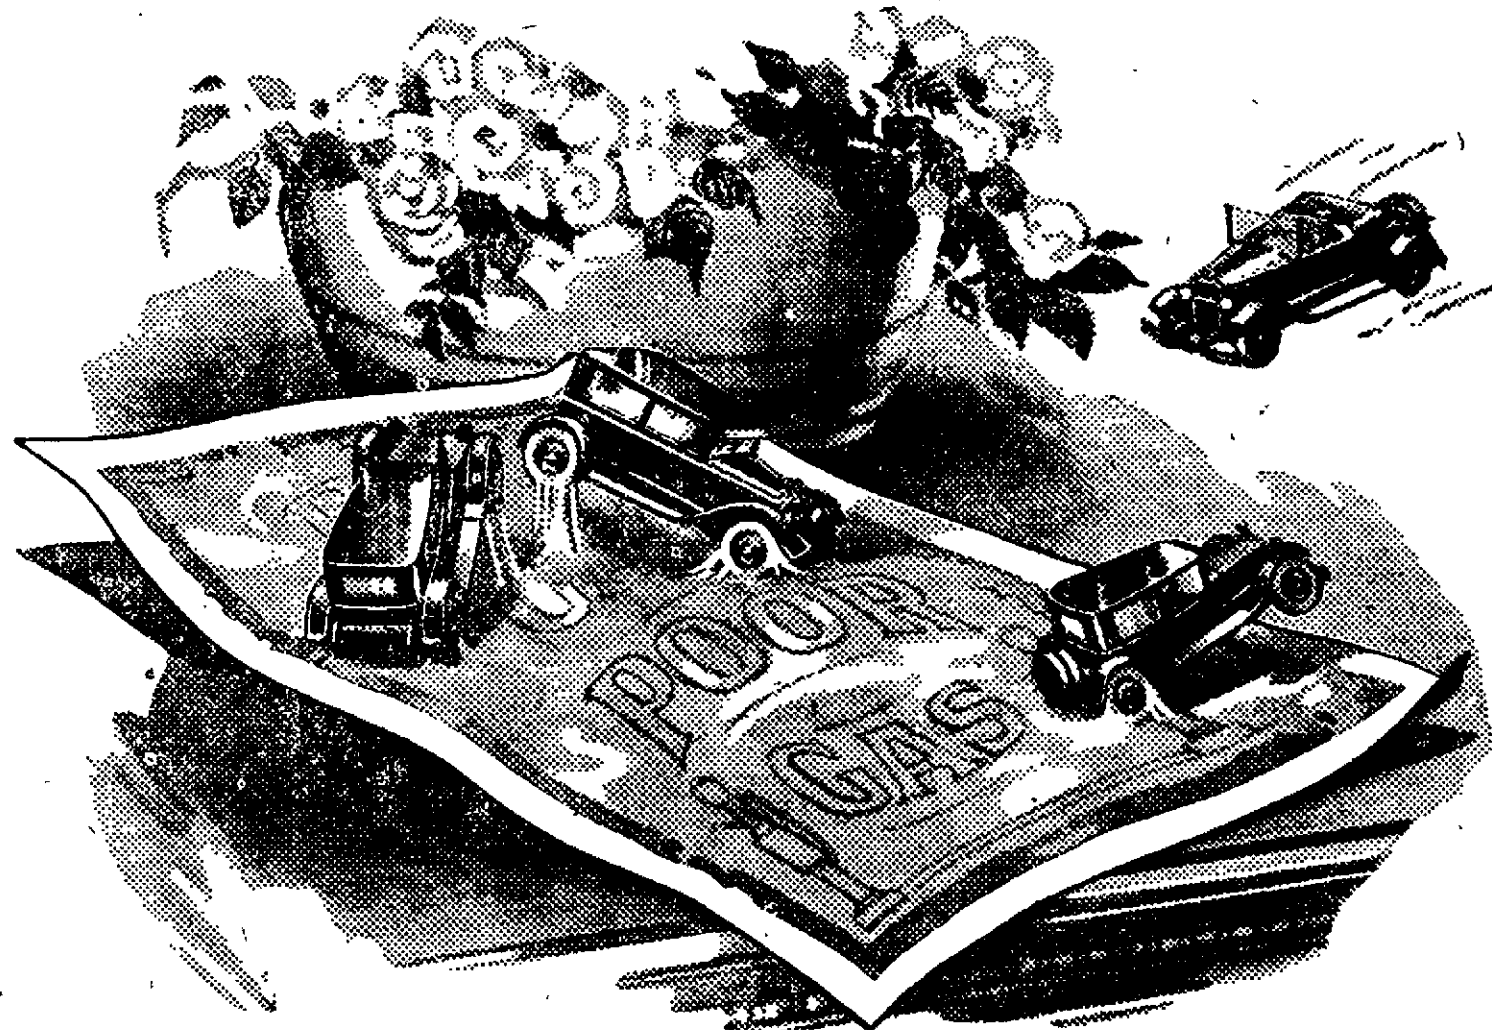

Thorston, one of the first motormen on the line; Edward Wahl and Joseph Patnaude, also motormen of long service, and Henry Gumz, who helped lay the rails when the line was built in 1898.

Work of tearing up the tracks will be started in a few weeks.

Tanglefoot!

ALL very sweet and syrupy, this saving money on cheap gas in summer. But it might pay to look at the drawbacks before your car buzzes into the swarm. Poor gas of common grade costs less per gallon only because there is less real gas in that gallon! Its place is taken by a "filler" of low kerosenish portions of the petroleum. These build up the bulk to legal measure but never convert into motor power.

Dull, draggy, resistant to the spark, it only half explodes, necessitating an over-rich mixture that empties your tank too soon. Still worse, there are certain portions that never get time to kindle. In scalding liquid drops they force down past the pistons, thinning the richness out of your lubricating oil—reducing its protection to every bearing surface. Can it really be CHEAP gas when you are "stuck" on both gallon value and repair bills?

Wadham's 370 True Gasoline

has no sweetened lure of trifles saved at the pump. It gets the equitable price for a full gallon of gas that is all gas. Every drop is converted to power. It operates on the thin dry mixture of real economy. It pays back to you more than its extra cost before it is used up.

And beyond all that comes its permanent protection to your motor against free carbon and deadly oil dilution by kerosene.

MAKE PEDDLERS SHOW LICENSE, POLICE WARNING

Cops Keep Close Watch to Prevent Unlicensed Salesmen from Working Here

When the dark-skinned "smuggler" of genuine Irish lace approaches your door, or the man with the knock-knee for sale, which he abso-lutely guarantees to work 101 mir-acles in the household—ask him to see his license or to prove conclusively, with a written document, that he has the sanction of the city to make a house to house canvass, is a warning issued Friday by Police Chief George T. Prim.

Thursday afternoon Detective Ser-geant John Duval brought in a silk salesman to police headquarters. The man, it was brought out, had started to canvass the city without the for-mality of discussing his intentions with the authorities. He told pol-ice that he is a former soldier and was under the impression that he did not need a license.

As his powers of persuasion had not been mesmeric enough to convince the housewife that his goods were indis-pensable to her, he was allowed to depart Friday morning with a warn-ing.

The man said he was from Green Day.

Although Appleton is not being over-run with peddlers and canvassers never the less the police department is keeping a close check on their peripatetic sojourns in the city, Chief Prim said.

JUDGE SENDS TWO BOYS TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Two Appleton lads, 11 and 14 years old respectively, brothers, were com-mitted to the state boys' industrial home at Waukesha while disposition of a third case involving an 8 year old boy was taken under advisement by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in the juvenile division of county court Thursday afternoon.

The three youths were arrested fol-lowing an investigation of recent au-tomobile, boathouse and home pilfer-ing, conducted by Police Chief George T. Prim.

Approximately $100 worth of loot, including revolvers, flashlights and minor auto accessories is alleged to have been found in the boys' posses-sion at the time of their arrest sever-al days ago.

SCHIEDERMAYER DIES WITHOUT LEAVING WILL

George Schiedermayer, former Ap-pleton hardware merchant, died intes-tate and his estate will be divided ac-cording to the laws of the state, it was reported Thursday. Administrators and appraisers were appointed in county court a week ago. The estimated value of the personal property and real es-tate left by Mr. Schiedermayer is in excess of $100,000.

MORE BUSINESS INCREASES COST

Zimmerman Tells Why State Department Is More Expensive

Milwaukee—(AP)—Increases in the business of the automobile license di- vision has resulted in a natural growth in the cost of its administration. Sec- retary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, candidate for the Republican guber-natorial nomination, said in a speech here Thursday night.

"Charges by the Madison ring can-didate for secretary of state that the cost of conducting the affairs of the department have increased without good reason are absolutely false and libelous," Mr. Zimmerman declared.

"During the past two years $116,- 305 was collected in delinquent fees which should have been paid in pre- ceding years and which under the old system would have escaped of col-lection entirely. The title law which was passed by the last session of the legislature almost doubled the work of this department and is responsible for the increased cost of administration over 1924.

"The ring candidate for the office I now hold displays gross ignorance of the details of administration of the department. He fails to take into consideration that when the state legislature imposes on any depart-ment new duties it also imposes on that department the responsibility for the organization of added adminis-trative facilities.

"The cost of executing the new title license law in operation this year for the first time naturally has increased the cost of operating the department over a given coast for the year preceding. Furthermore, the ad-ded cost of new machinery to take care of the mechanical end of the administration of this new title li-cense law is a cost which will occur only the first year because the same machinery can be used next year and years following."

STABLISH NEW HATCHERIES TO SUPPLY TROUT

Millions More of Fish Will Be Made Available to Stock Streams

Wisconsin is preparing to enlarge its trout population.

Trout hatcheries are being developed by the state conservation commission with a capacity of more than 15,000,000 trout annually. Commissioner Elmer S. Hall announced. Six hatcheries already are providing 15,000,000 trout annually for Wisconsin waters. Seven of the new hatcheries were donated to the state by people of communities interested in fish culture. Mr. Hall said. They are located at Westfield, the Little Brule river in Douglas co., Crystal Springs in Langlade co., Stevens Point, Nekeosa, Marinette and Sparta.

The other hatchery, three miles from St. Croix Falls, was leased by the state last spring for ten years. "Wisconsin has 7,000 miles of trout streams, practically all of which are expected to be reached with the new peak production of the speckled game fish," Commissioner Hall said.

"The Hanson hatchery near St. Croix Falls has been operated as a private venture for 45 years and is now producing about 5,000,000 trout a year. The capacity of this plant is expected to be developed to 8,000,000 a year under state supervision. The hatchery covers 300 acres and is one of the largest in the country. The spring hatch at this place averaged 4 1/2 inches in length on August 1.

"The old hatchery at Westfield has been replaced by a new one at a new site and represents a gift to the state from the people of Westfield. The hatchery was turned over to the state fully equipped.

"The Douglas co. hatchery is being built on state land by the people of Superior at a cost of $4,500. Contracts for the hatchery have been let and the county is now building a road into the grounds.

"The Langlade co. hatchery is lo-

SUMMER MONTHS MOST HEALTHFUL

Fewer Deaths During Hot Months Than Any Time During Year

Summer months, once a thing of sickness, now are the most healthful in Wisconsin the state board of health finds.

On a basis of mortality, the board stated June, July, August and September are the most healthful, for they have fewer deaths than any other season.

"Before people knew as much about keeping well as they do today, the hot summer months, particularly July and August, took the largest toll," the state board stated. "That was the period when digestive disturbances, mainly enteritis in infants and typhoid fever, kept physicians busy. Today the summer months are comparatively healthful and the death rates low."

"At the present time," explained the board, "February and March are the months most to be feared. These are the months when we have our highest mortality, due almost entirely to the increased prevalence of communicable diseases and of respiratory diseases, chief of which is pneumonia."

"Deaths from suicide are more common in April and May than during any other season of the year, the highest incidence occurring in May. Why people are more inclined to take their own lives during the wonderful month of May is difficult to explain. The physiological effect of indoor living, with improper elimination due to lack of exercise, may be a predisposing factor."

The board urges precaution for the prevention of common colds, bronchitis and tonsillitis, and particularly pneumonia and after effect of respiratory infections.

Wholesale food in proper amounts, plenty of sleep, proper elimination, taking of regular exercise in the open air keeping the body and mouth and nose clean, avoidance of hot stuffy rooms and of needless exposure to wet and cold are measures advocated.

NOTHING IS THE BEST THING TO DO IN A HURRY

WARN CORPORATIONS TO MAKE YEARLY REPORTS

Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, has notified the following Appleton and Outagamie co. business firms that failure to file their corporation reports on June 1, has been noted by his office.

Alesch Insurance Co.; American Restaurant; Appleton Holding Corporation; Appleton Game Club; Appleton Riding Club; Appleton Sport Shop; August Brandt Co.; Drephal Co-operative Livestock Shipping Association; town of Cleveo; Hewitt Water Power Co.; Kaukauna; Hortonville Consumers' Store; Hortonville; Konz Box and Lumber Co.; Black Creek; Petraylke Co.; Seymour Woodenware Co.; Seymour.

A notation calls attention to the fact that companies stand in danger of losing their state corporation rights unless returns are filed before Jan. 1, 1927.

Production of speckled trout at the older hatcheries averages as follows: Bayfield 5,000,000; Wild Rose, 1,500,000; Madison, 3,000,000; St. Croix Falls, 5,500,000; Hayward, 500,000; and Lakewood, 500,000.

FEWER ACCIDENTS ON STATE ROADS

Only Half as Many People Killed in Highway Crashes as Last Year

Highway accidents have decreased in Wisconsin this year, J. T. Donaghey, state highway engineer, reports.

During the first five months of 1926, the number of accidents reported on the state trunk system was 301, as compared with 372 for the corresponding period in 1925. The number of fatalities this year was 27, as compared with 51 last year.

"It is a source of gratification that there has been a decrease in the number of accidents even though this may not indicate a tendency to that end," Mr. Donaghey said.

In order to avoid accidents due to motor vehicles colliding with patrolmen's equipment, principally blade graders, the patrolmen have been supplied with red flags to be attached to the equipment to indicate the danger point.

Industrial accidents increased nearly 3 per cent during the three months ending June 30. R. A. McKeown, engineer of the industrial commission, reported. During the period, 6,713 accidents were reported to the commission.

The zinc mines have set an unusual record, Mr. Keown said, seventeen months having passed without a fatal accident.

Seventy-four crossing accidents, resulting in the death of 16 persons and the injury of 47, were reported by steam railroads during the three months ending June 30. C. M. Larson, engineer of the railroad commission, reported. Sixty-six of the accidents involved automobiles, with 11 fatalities and 41 injuries.

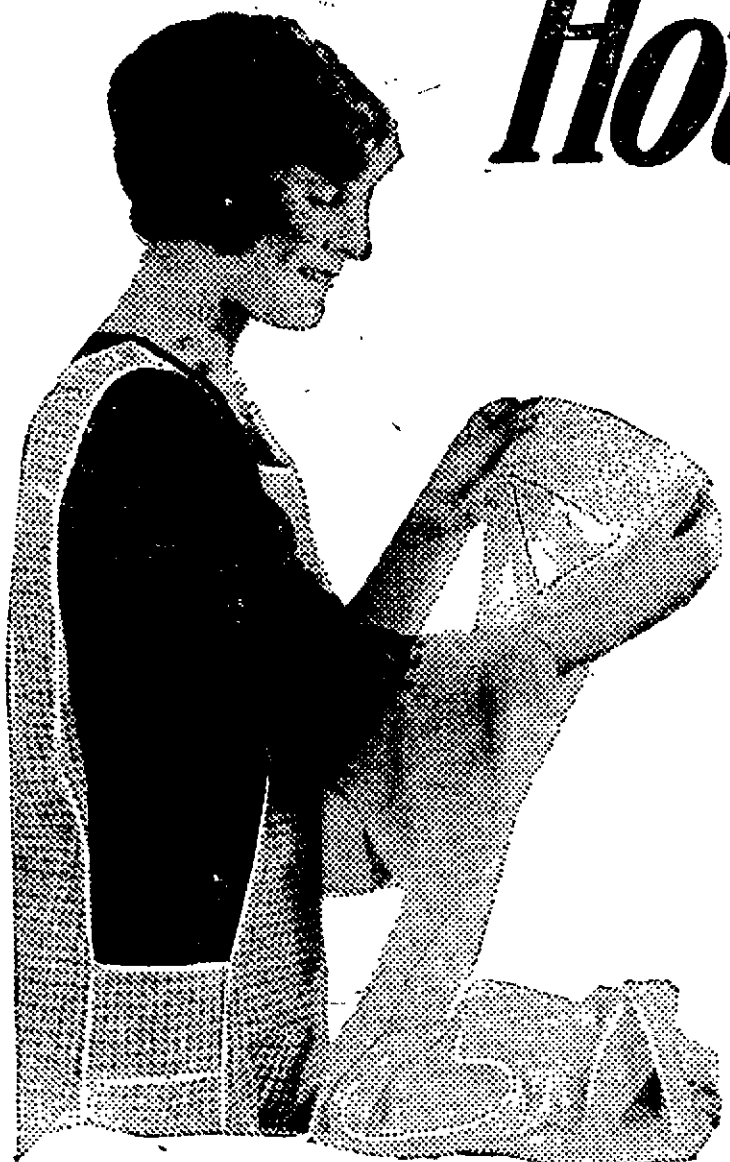

In 154 accidents other than those occurring at crossings, the steam roads reported 19 fatalities and 97 injuries.

Trespassers furnished eight killed and eleven injured.

Note how the satin-smooth, self-cleaning, cast-aluminum tub keeps the water cleansingly hot for an entire washing. And the water stays clean because the dirt settles into the sediment trap beneath the gyrator.

Don't Send Mr. Lenroot to Washington if You Want Beer

OUR cause requires shirt-sleeved men in Washington, who are free from the Anti-Saloon League yoke; men who will fight vigorously on the floor of the Senate for their convictions and the sentiment of their constituents.

Senator Lenroot's record in Washington does not commend him for re-election at the hands of the voters who want the return of a nickel glass of beer.

Throughout his Senatorial career, Mr. Lenroot has supported consistently every dry measure.

He voted for the Eighteenth Amendment.

He voted for the Volstead Act.

He voted to over-ride President Wilson's veto of the Volstead Act.

He has been associated closely with Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League.

Does that record indicate that he will help the workingman to get his nickel glass of healthful beer? Of course not!

Now, to attract the wet vote, Mr. Lenroot hides behind the cloak of a referendum which probably will not be held.

His record does not lend even the faintest hope of help for the return of beer, and ridding this country of the deepest, ugliest scar it has ever known.

Send Governor John J. Blaine to the U. S. Senate

You know where he stands.

Three years ago, he stood courageously before a joint meeting of your Legislature and stated that the Eighteenth Amendment had no place in our Constitution; that the Volstead Act had written a lie into our statutes, and that he wanted power to enact prohibition legislation returned to the States, so that the workingmen of Wisconsin could enjoy again, a good, wholesome glass of beer.

There is no straddling the issue there! That is a promise without any strings to it. It is the language of a strong man. A man whom you have elected to the high office of Governor of Wisconsin for three terms, and who has administered the affairs of Wisconsin fearlessly.

This is the type of two-fisted fighter we need here in the Senate. A man who will stand by his convictions regardless of Anti-Saloon League influence.

If You Want Beer Vote for John J. Blaine for U. S. Senator

This appeal is issued by W. H. Stayton, National President of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, 1523 L Street, N. W., Room 409, Washington, D. C., which has authorized its publication and for which $134.40 will be paid.

WILL ORGANIZE HOSPITAL BOARD FRIDAY EVENING

Articles of Incorporation Will Be Submitted at Meeting at Hall

Special to the Post-Crescent

New London—Articles of incorporation will be submitted at a special meeting Friday evening at Library hall called for the purpose of perfecting the organization of a board of directors for the proposed hospital which is now a certainty. A building has been secured, and fourteen hundred dollars which has for some time been in the hands of the hospital board, will be used in making the building ready for use.

The proposed building is the former residence occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown on N. Water-st. The management of the establishment will be supervised by a nurse who will have quarters at the hospital. New London has long felt the need of a hospital, according to local physicians. There is a large outlying district which falls under the care of our physicians who, in extreme cases find themselves handicapped with suitable quarters for care, it is pointed out. Interest among citizens over a hospital is high and large attendance is expected at the meeting.

The house proposed is one quite adequate for the present and in excellent condition with but few exceptions, it is reported.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—Miss Marjorie Kendall and Oliver Kloeck, both of this community, were married at Waukegan Monday afternoon, the Rev. Bartz of the Lutheran church of Waukegan officiating. Telegrams from the couple announcing the ceremony have been received here.

Miss Kendall graduated from the local high school a year ago while her husband is a graduate of the year prior. Miss Kendall during her senior year acted as accompanist for the orchestra of the high school. The young man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Kloeck. They will make their home on a farm in Caladonia.

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Mrs. Anna Schroeder, Little Wolf, to Henry Abraham of Mukwa, on Saturday, Sept. 4, has been made.

Miss Della Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Roberts, and Lanning McFaul, son of Daniel McFaul,

HOLD PAPE FUNERAL AT CLINTONVILLE

New London—The funeral of Mrs. Herman Pape, 69, of the town of Matteson, who died shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at her home, was held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at Clintonville, Rev. Stubenvoll of that city officiating. Three sons, Herman and Henry of Clintonville and William of Neopit, survive.

Mrs. Pape had apparently been in excellent health before her sudden illness late Monday. On Sunday she had taken a long motor trip with members of the family and on the day she died was not thought to be in a serious condition. Her husband died three years ago.

MAN LOSES FINGER; ANOTHER INJURES HAND

New London—E. W. Hall, an employee of the Wisconsin Panel and Cabinet company, suffered a serious accident Wednesday when he caught the index finger of his left hand in the machinery, causing such an injury that amputation of the member was necessary. Mr. Hall will not be able to return to work for several days.

Another accident Thursday morning occurred when Byron Christian, who is employed by Krause's North Side market, caught his left hand between two barrels which were filled and which were being rolled along on the floor. The hand was lacerated and several stitches were taken by the surgeon.

will be married at the Catholic church Sept. 16. The bride will be attended by the groom's sister, Miss Dora McFaul, Victor Roberts, brother of the bride, will attend the groom. The couple will make its home in this city.

Miss Evelyn Hutchinson recently entertained members of the volley ball league, members of which have been active in playground sports the past summer under the direction of Miss Hutchinson, director. The guests announced their arrival at Miss Hutchinson's home by singing an improvised song, the words of which had to do with their appreciation of Miss Hutchinson's efforts in summer playground work.

The entertainment of the evening consisted of games played in relays and the girl winning the highest score in all games was awarded a prize by the hostess. Miss Olive Rosentreter was then the lucky guest. Dancing and music, followed a cafeteria lunch after which the girls presented Miss Hutchinson with a casserole.

STAGE AND SCREEN
HUSBANDS DE LUXE
 In "Footloose Widows," Warner Brothers' pictureization of the famous Beatrice Burton serial of the same name, showing at the Elite Theatre, for the last times today the much-discussed flapper is shown in her true light. She is the pretty, wistful, adventurous, frank and altogether alluring Flo, a mannequin in an exclusive Fifth Avenue shop, when the story begins. With her is her girl friend, Marion, mistress of the wardrobe. How these two lay a brilliant scheme to win gold, glory and the Prince charming, and how their well-meant plans lead to complications, ludicrous to the on-looker but of terrible and soul-stirring reality, to themselves—and how cupid, in the form of Jerry, is the means of straightening out the tangle—makes the story of one of the most heartening, mirth-provoking pictures of the generation.

 Louis Fazenda for the first time is seen on the screen as her fascinating beautiful self, but funnier even then when seen as the boyden of the pigtail and the gingham gowns, "Footloose Widows" gives her her first chance to display an absolutely new vein of humor—humor which can come very near tears—and to appear in gowns of such glamorous beauty as only the Paris designers can conceive. Jacqueline Logan shares feature honors with Miss Fazenda.

LOTS OF LAUGHS FOUND IN NEW SWANSON FILM

Under the head of "Etiquette," on a poster advertising Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount starring production, which comes to the Fischers Appleton on Sunday, the following has been observed:
 "Peas should not be eaten with a knife—sawdust swallowers are de trop in good society."
 "Don't drink from a finger bowl—some one may have used it before you."
 "Squabs should not be gnawed from the fingers—they must be dismembered with a fork on the plate."
 "Asparagus should be gently nibbled from the fingers."
 "Don't tuck a napkin under your pearl necklace—you might break the string and lose your beads."
 "If you get a spot on the tablecloth, cover it with your glass."
 All of which gives one some slight idea of the laughs in store for the movie-goers, who see Gloria as a little burlesque chorus girl taking a course in "Fine Manners." Eugene O'Brien

"The Miracle Dog of the Movies,"—otherwise "Peter the Great," is the bright shining star at the New Bijou today and Saturday when he appears in the new Gaiety Production, "The Sign of the Cross."

This picture is stated to be one of the greatest novelties of the season owing to the fact that it is the first photodrama ever made featuring a dog star in which every scene is laid in a big city—all previous dog pictures having had a country atmosphere.
 Peter is supported by an all-star cast with Ethel Shannon, Edward Hearn, Lee Shumway and Joe Bennett in important roles.
 The action of the plot revolves around a detective who is assigned the dangerous task of capturing some international crooks. He is assisted by his dog, Peter, who plays a most important part in the tracking to earth of the criminals. Peter matches both brain and brawn against the desperadoes—and wins.
 The production was directed by Reeves Eason, famed as the director who staged the big chariot races in "Ben Hur" and other screen hits.

TRADE SCHOOL READY TO OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

First Two Days Will Be Devoted to Registration of New Students

Registration of new students for the new school year of Appleton vocational school will take place next Tuesday and the first classes composed of half-time students, will start Thursday, according to H. F. Heilig, director. Letters have been mailed to probable employers of juveniles and to all former students containing information concerning the registration and opening classes.

Letters to the employers ask them to cooperate with the school in the registration of students if they employ boys or girls under 18. The employers are asked to release minor employees, who should attend school, for a half-day on registration days. The students will merely register and receive class assignments. Letters to the students ask them to report on Tuesday. Girls of the high making department are to report to Miss Mabel Burke and those of the commercial department to Mrs. Bertha Berry. Boys are to report directly to the school office.

New students expecting to register have been asked to bring their last report cards from other schools as well as courthouse records or baptismal certificates to prove their age.

FOURTEEN TEACHERS

The school building is ready for use. One new room was added in the sub-basement and was formerly used for a coal bin. It will be used for the new plumbing department. Repairs were made during the summer, including refinishing of floors and redecorating of most of the rooms.

The faculty for the year, besides Mr. Heilig, will consist of 14 teachers. One of these, a part-time teacher to take the place of Harold Bachman, instructor in bookkeeping and office practice, who has resigned, has not yet been chosen. The classes are all in the afternoon.

Members of the faculty are James Chadek, cabinet making and carpentry; Ray Challoner, machine shop; Clyde Cavert, electrical classes, mathematics and general science; Edward Chandler, coordinator and social science; F. O. Mader, plumbing; H. G. Noyes, pulp and paper classes; Selmer S. Saeter, printing and mechanical drawing.

Mrs. Bertha Berry, commercial; Miss Ida Wunderlich, clothing; Miss Mabel Burke, food and related home making; Miss Pansy Tash, food, health and home visitation work; Mrs. John Morgan, English and related commercial; Mrs. Maurice Peerenboom, relative home making and relative academics for half-time boys.

Thanksgiving vacation at the school will be Nov. 25 and 26. The Christmas vacation will be from Dec. 17 to Jan. 3 and the spring vacation from March 25 to April 4. School closes for the summer on June 3.

Information on the compulsory school attendance laws has been announced by Mr. Heilig as follows: All minors between 7 and 14 years of age must attend the regular schools five days per week.

All minors between 14 and to the end of the term in which they become 15 years are divided into two classes. Those who have not finished the eighth grade or have not attended school nine years (not counting kindergarten) must attend the full time schools five days per week.

Those who have finished the eighth grade or have attended school nine years must attend school at least half time. This attendance may be at any school but those not in attendance at any other school must attend the vocational school. This school arranges classes so that girls attend one half day each day and boys attend week in, week out.

All minors between 16 and to the end of the term in which they become 18 years of age, not in full attendance at any other school, must attend vocational school eight hours per week.

Exemptions are high school graduates, or those who furnish a doctor's certificate showing they are physically or mentally unable to attend. A new certificate is necessary each year. They will be honored for the length of time specified by the doctor. A doctor's certificate will not be honored if the minor continues at work.

The attendance required above is the minimum required at any time of the year. Full time attendance at any school during one time of the year does not excuse anyone from the minimum required during the remainder of the year.

HEINEMANN'S BACK FROM ENJOYABLE MOTOR TOUR

Judge and Mrs. Fred V. Heinemann are at home in Appleton after completing an interesting automobile tour during the judge's annual vacation.

The party motored to L'Anse-au-Loup, Chassell, Houghton and Hancock, Mich., and concluded the vacation at Lakota, Vilas county, Wis.

At Chassell Judge and Mrs. Heinemann visited the judge's father who is in Michigan discouraging an attack of hay fever.

Aside from the fact that Michigan roads are in splendid condition only two highlights marked the tour, Judge Heinemann said.

"Our aircooled dog, which we took along, decided to put his intelligence against a porcupine. The dog came off a poor second best," the judge said.

While stopping to inspect a sedan which had been in a wreck a speeding car crashed into the rear of the Heinemann machine damaging it considerably. This was the only serious mishap to mar a most enjoyable vacation, Judge Heinemann declared.

Innocence Proved But He Can't Get Out Of Prison

La Crosse—Although another man has confessed to the murder for which Elliott Gaskill, 26, of La Crosse, is serving a life sentence in an Iowa penitentiary, Gaskill remains lodged in his cell and can be released only by a pardon from the governor.

The dying confession of a bandit who was shot down by police in New Orleans—a man of whom Gaskill had never heard—bears out Gaskill's repeated protestations of innocence. But under the Iowa law there is no way to reopen the case. Gov. Hammill is the only one who can help him.

COMPANION CONFESSED

In November, 1923, Detective Thomas Griffin was shot to death in Des Moines. On the following day Gaskill, a World War veteran, and one, Cecil Mickle, described as a youth of defective mentality, were arrested. Gaskill insisted he was innocent, but Mickle twice confessed. In his first confession he said he shot Griffin; then he said Gaskill did. On his testimony Gaskill was convicted.

Gaskill, an orphan, was jobless at the time—floating about in search of work. He had no one to help him, and was forgotten soon after he went to prison.

Then, a short time ago, a holdup man was killed in New Orleans. In his pocket was a notebook. This notebook contained a written statement, signed by him, declaring that he had killed Griffin and that the two youths who were in prison for the crime had had no connection with it. The statement explained that so long as the bandit lived he would not confess, but that he had written down his confession so that, if he were killed, the innocent prisoners would be exonerated.

RAISE DEFENSE FUND

La Crosse people rallied to Gaskill's support at once. The American Legion post, civic organizations, and the La Crosse newspapers raised a $600 fund for his defense.

Under Iowa law, they found, Gaskill's case cannot be reopened by the courts. The only one who can save him is Gov. Hammill, who can pardon him. So all the details of the case are being prepared for presentation to the governor. La Crosse wants to see the luckless young war veteran restored to society.

EKERN PEEVED AT ROOSEVELT'S RAP AT PRIMARY

Speech Was Part of Nation-wide Attack on Election System, He Says

Beloit—(P)—Attorney General Herman L. Eker, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, declared in a speech here Thursday night that the recent address of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in Milwaukee, criticizing the direct primary system, was part of a nation wide attempt to destroy the direct primary.

"The nation wide attack on the La Follette direct primary, the first step of which is the reintroduction of the corrupt convention and caucus, has just been reached in Wisconsin by the ambitious son of a famous Republican—Bull Moose president," he said. "In his Milwaukee speech, he commented on the $3,000,000 Pennsylvania and the $1,000,000 Illinois primary expenditures and then he joined in the reactionary cry that the primary costs too much, and that costing too much it should be abolished. That it was the corruption that necessitated the vast outlays and not the primary did not occur to this spokesman for reaction."

"It is the exposure and not the cost that hurts. Three million dollars is only 1 per cent of the more than $300,000,000 a year that the profiteers and millionaires received in income tax reductions from the last session of congress. They can well afford as they did to spend $3,000,000 in an attempt to control an election."

"The truth is that the reactionaries do not trust the people. The true reactionary wants to be a guardian and not a servant. He would if he could abolish not only the primary but the elections as well. He is opposed to direct rule of the people. He is fundamentally opposed to the ballot. Elections disturb exploiters who are in control of government."

"A La Follette-progressive state administration, a La Follette-progressive legislature, a La Follette-progressive senator and congressional delegation will insure a free and direct primary."

Clears away itching rash in two days
Uses Resinol ointment for all kinds of skin ills

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4.—"On July 20, 1917, just before I was called to service in France, I was advised by my druggist to use Resinol Ointment for a rash which I had on my arm. It relieved the itching and the rash was gone in two days. Later I cured two friends of mine who were suffering from some kind of skin trouble. We all agreed that it was 100% stuff for anything like a breaking out."

While in France I had a bunch of boils that nothing seemed to cure until I had the doctor fix the little place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I soon lost all my boils and from that time on I became the outfit's boil and pimple doctor. Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. Every little cut or scratch gets its immediate application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-evaluated ointment." (Signed) Chas. T. Sweet, Jr., 3015 So. 7th St.

MORE THAN HALF OF GRADUATES TO ATTEND COLLEGE

Large Part of 1926 Class Will Enter Lawrence College

More than 50 per cent of the graduating class of 1926 of Appleton high school will enroll in colleges this fall, according to H. H. Heible, principal. About the same percentage of Appleton graduates enter college each year. This percentage is much higher than in most cities, where the average ranges from 25 to 30 per cent.

Colleges are becoming more exacting in their entrance requirements. Principal Heible reports. Northwestern university of Evanston, Ill., is perhaps one of the most exacting, although nearly all educational institutions are following in its footsteps in making their requirements more rigid.

Northwestern university issues questionnaires which principals of high schools must fill out. The blanks require the student's grades for his four years in high school, a list of the classes he has attended, his attendance record, a list of the schools he has attended since kindergarten detailed questions regarding the applicant's parents and a detailed account of the personal habits and temperaments of the student.

The application blanks ask for a complete account of the student's activities outside of school, his athletic and school activity record, in school, nationality and birth record, where he will get the money to attend school and how much spending money he will have. He must also obtain a health record from his physician.

Most colleges will not admit an applicant unless he has an average of more than 80 for his four years' course. According to Mr. Heible, Appleton high school does not recommend a student unless his average is above this mark.

To be able to obtain all this information, a complete record of the student must be kept during the entire course. Formerly only the scholastic record of the student was kept. A new system of registration and record cards are to be printed and will be kept on file at the high school. The cards will list all information, required by the college for entrance. Filling out of applications for college is a big task, and students who have not yet had their applications made out are advised to do so at once. If this matter is postponed until the opening of school, it will mean a delay of a week or ten days.

The largest number of graduates of last year's class who are going to college will attend Lawrence college. The following students have made application: Edward Blossman, Wilma Buchholz, Jeanette Clausen, Harold Franck, Helen Gilman, Bertha Greenberg, Kathryn Hovser, Eleanor Johnson, Ethlyn Knuth, Frank Krelling, Milton Lilje, Lucille Manser, Elizabeth Meating, Harriet Melhinch.

SITE OF FIRST WOMAN'S CLUB IS STILL SHRINE

Woman Who Was Bored With Life in Small Town Originated Club

New Harmony, Ind.—(AP)—Bored with life in a small Indiana town, Constance Owen Faunt Le Roy organized the first women's club here sixty-seven years ago.

Miss Faunt Le Roy, back from six years study and travel in Europe, found society in New Harmony uninteresting. As the grand daughter of Robert Owen, Scotch philanthropist and niece of Robert Dale Owen, master of Naples, Miss Faunt Le Roy had been welcomed into continental society. She had been presented at the courts of the king of Italy and the emperor of Austria.

The opportunities for cultural avocations were meager in the almost isolated Hoosier community which her grandfather had chosen for his ill-fated experiment in socialism. New Harmony was wearisome and to escape the ennui of the town Miss Faunt Le Roy determined to form a club of young women and call it "The Minerva."

The largest fine was $50 and costs levied against a man who pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while intoxicated. The second largest was paid by a soft drink establishment proprietor who paid $25 and costs on a charge of selling near beer without a city license.

Thirty-five persons paid city fines amounting to $374; 18 state fines amounting to $208.50, and 12 county fines totaling $120 were collected. The figures, it was pointed out, do not vary greatly for those of recent past months nor with the totals for even date one year ago.

Choose Book
For Child
With Care

Before you buy a book for a child consider the child's personality and temperament.

Of course, there is a general type of book that is always delightful to old and young regardless of sex or character, but as a rule we should not buy books for children, as a class, than we would buy them clothes all exactly alike.

There is no greater medium in the world for character training, even for health building, than children's books, and it is absolutely essential that they suit the child to whom they are read.

FRIGHTENING TALES
Nervous children should, of course never be read the exciting story of dangerous adventure. Funny adventures, yes! The more they laugh the better. Fairy tales of baby-stealing dwarfs and malicious witches who eat children—never, never!

"With all due respect to the old German fairy tales," a noted librarian says, "some of them should have been burned in the original manuscript. Many of them are very beautiful, such as the 'Discontented Fir Tree.' But they should be selected by experts before being presented to children—especially under 8 or 9 years of age. Even 'The Snow Queen' should not be read to a child with a tendency to oversensitiveness and melancholy.

CULTIVATE CHILD'S HUMOR
"If every kind of reading makes your little boy or girl nervous, don't read to him or her at all. Vapid reading is worse than none. Wait until he outgrows his extreme nervousness and read to him then all the bright funny things you can find. In any child a sense of humor should be cultivated. It is the thing he is going to need most in his life, and a love of the beautiful, of course—and all the virtues (very carefully disguised, by the way, if you don't wish him to bolt).

"Put a few good books in your trunk for the children on rainy days if you go away. And there will be cool evenings indoors, too. And see here, good friends, always make a fairy a lovely thing—or even comical, but never dreadful. I know of a little boy who was frightened into spasms at the idea of Santa Claus coming down the chimney because he associated all magic with crime."

NEW YORK CLUB WOMEN MAKE OLD DOLLS NEW AGAIN
WILL GIVE TO ORPHANS ON THANKSGIVING

A FEW OF THE HUNDRED OLD DOLLS COLLECTED BY THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING DOLL OFFERING COMMITTEE.

Where is Susan Ellen now, do you suppose?

You remember Susan Ellen—that golden-haired doll you loved as a child, that could move her arms, go to sleep, and had three dresses all her own.

Perhaps you called her Elizabeth Evangeline. Some do.

Where is she now, do you suppose? In the attic rag-bag? Back on the hall closet shelf? Or locked away in an old trunk with the Calico Cat and that book of illustrated fairy stories?

Wherever Susan Ellen is, she's needed again.

If Susan Ellen were carefully repaired, dressed in fresh clothes, done up in a neat package, and sent to some orphan asylum, she would make some orphan mighty happy.

In New York an organization of society women has started a nationwide movement to make use of discarded dolls in this manner.

The organization proposes that distribution of the dolls take place on Thanksgiving Day.

"Clubs and civic organizations everywhere, we hope, will adopt the plan," says Miss Dorothy Johnston, of New York, one of the sponsors.

"Making old dolls new again requires just a little skill and effort. And there are plenty of orphans."

The picture above shows a few of the dolls which the New York organization already has collected and prepared for the Thanksgiving Day fête.

Any local clubs which want advice on the matter can get it from the National Thanksgiving Doll Offering Committee, 114 East 28th Street, New York City.

more intimate moments of communion with Lady Nicotine and other intimate acquaintances.

One of the newest examples of the smoking costume consists of black velvet trousers of hardly ankle length and a double breasted velvet jacket with the revers and collar outlined in cream georgette. Should such a costume prove too somber for the taste of those addicted to moments of boyishness, the designers have provided jackets of lame and morrocane worn over a short velvet skirt or dark tobacco brown, which nicotine lovers denominate "maduro."

"JET BUT NOT BLACK JET"
Jet is being used as a trimming of numberless evening gowns. But the black with which the name is associated is strangely absent. It is generally seen now dyed green, blue or red, but possessed of the same scintillant qualities which for years have rendered it so distinctive. Naturally it is adapted only for evening frocks but the masters of the dye pot have given it a multitude of shades calculated to produce emerald, ruby or sapphire effects.

LIMA BEANN SUFFLE
One cup cooked sieved lima beans, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup milk, few drops onion juice.

Melt butter and bacon fat and stir in flour. Season with salt, pepper and onion juice and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and remove from the fire. Add yolks of eggs and blend thoroughly. Add beans and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes or until the soufflé is well puffed and firm to the touch. Serve at once.

FASHION FAVORS
FLUFFY DRESSES
FOR MIDSUMMER

Midsommer finds the fashionable women in the eastern part of the United States wearing extremely summery dresses in preference to dark silks. While silk predominates over cotton materials, colors are summery, ranging from white and pastel shades to brilliant reds, greens and yellows.

White is extremely popular wherever smart women gather. For day wear, white pleated skirts with matching blouses or high lustered satin blouses predominate. Red is often combined with white as where a white frock trimmed or flowered with red is worn with a matching red wide-brimmed straw hat. Entire red costumes including dress and hat are noted at Atlantic City.

HARMONY OF COLOR
Monotone costumes with hat and dress matching are a bit more popular than contrasting outfits. Pastel greens, rose beige, pansy purple, beige and yellow are popular colors.

For afternoon wear small-flowered used for these monotone effects. georgette and chiffon frocks worn with wide-brimmed transparent hats are the rule. Lace of plain colored material is often combined with the flowers gown at hem, sleeves, and scarf ends to break the figured effect. Flowing lines are strictly adhered to in flowered models. Backgrounds are either neutral gray or tan and are matched by shoes and hosiery.

Small felt hats are those generally worn with the jumper sport dress. Large or medium-brimmed hats conform best with the more dressy type of frock.

FLUFFY EFFECTS

Black chiffon and black lace are very popular for evening and dinner occasions. Underslips are often flesh color and flesh-colored lace or chiffon is often introduced in the flowing skirt. Transparent hems are frequent. Beige, dyed lace, combined with net or chiffon forms dinner frocks for many smart young misses. Panels, tiers, pleats and aprons tend to give the fluff effect so desired. Shoes at present run to light colored kids, fancy straps, raffia trimmings, etc. Red and green shoes are worn with white costumes at some of nude and deeper champagne shades.

USE INDIVIDUAL
IDEAS WHEN YOU
WEAR PEARLS

Those 60-inch strands of pearls are very popular. Perhaps this is due to the fact that individual fancy dictates the adjustment of this necklace.

One woman twirls the strong of pearls around the neck three times, in choker fashion, and has a long strand falling down the front. Another doubles the strand and puts it around the neck; at the left side she slips one end through the loop of the other, making a slipknot and letting the double strand hang down the front side.

Still another twists the double strand about the neck and, with a pearl brooch, catches it in the back.

Household Hints

SINK STRAINER
Sink strainer conscientiously used will save many plumber's bills.

BOILED COFFEE
Boiled coffee may be cleared by the addition of a little cold water, just before serving.

BUTTER BALLS
Balls of butter made with a French vegetable cutter add damntness to the luncheon table.

NURSERY TABLE
The nursery needs a white porcelain topped table, on which glasses, bottles, and other utensils may be set without fear of staining the surface.

FINGER BOWLS
For the formal dinner, finger bowls should hold slightly heated, delicate-scented water. They should be one-third full.

AIR TIGHT CANS
Cereals and spices must be kept in air tight cans for protection against insects, even in the best regulated kitchen.

RED PEPPER
Always examine cayenne pepper closely, for it is very likely to contain tiny red bugs, unless it is perfectly fresh.

CREAM CONTAINERS
Cream or milk left in uncovered containers in the icebox develops an undesirable top crust.

SMALL ROAST
Sirloin or teabone steak with the bones removed may be rolled and tied in shape for a small roast, to accommodate the family that cannot use a large rib roast.

SKEWERED KIDNEYS
Place a parboiled kidney on a wooden skewer with a mushroom and a strip of bacon, and broil over a medium fire.

MARK PRESERVES
When canning fruit or any other food, always mark cans clearly, printing the label on a small gummed slip of paper to save mistakes in selecting cans next winter.

BUTTERED EGGS
Eggs slipped into a frying pan containing melted butter will have more delicate flavor than the egg fried in bacon grease.

POWDERED BORAX
Powdered borax sprinkled about the haunts of tiny house ants will drive them away.

GARBAGE CAN
The ordinary crockery bean pot makes an excellent garbage can, because its smooth surface can be easily cleaned. It should be scalded twice a week.

BOILED EGGS
Boiled eggs will continue to cook if left in hot water, even though the fire is turned off. To keep them warm un-

The stovepipe hat, an oddity in everyday wear since the passing of back drivers, has been resurrected and revamped as the smart new thing in women's hat for fall and winter.

COCONUT COCKTAIL
Sprinkle a little moist coconut on top of your fruit cocktail, for added sweetness and piquancy.

DAMP CLOTH
Sandwiches may be kept fresh by wrapping in a damp towel.

BOUILLON
A spoonful of whipped cream and a dash of paprika improves any clear soup, both in looks and in taste.

FRUIT STAINS
Fruit juices spilled on porcelain tables or sinks should be immediately wiped up, for they will cause a permanent discoloration if left standing.

KITCHEN STOOL
A kitchen stool that can be transformed into a miniature step ladder is invaluable to the busy housewife.

MUFFIN BATTER
Muffin batter may be mixed and set on ice until time to bake, if the housewife wishes to prepare it ahead of time. The cold air prevents the leavening from working too soon.

BERRY MUFFINS
Blackberries or blueberries used in muffins should be dredged with flour before they are added to the batter.

Green lamp shades over the kitchen bulbs will make night work in the kitchen less nerve-racking.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

FEARLESSNESS REGENTS ADMIRATION

Mr. Hathaway, senior, quickly took the bag in his hands, opened it, saw at his lovely fittings, and then looked at me interestedly.

"What's this got to do with the episode at the restaurant?" he inquired.

"A lot. Your son sent this doggy little bag, with a note saying he had made the restaurant people buy to-bag and put in two hundred and fifty dollars which you will find in the pocketbook inside."

Mr. Hathaway, senior, examined the beautiful brocade bag very carefully and then he turned to me, saying: "Well, young man, Miss Dean wouldn't you consider the incident closed? Why did you come here with your story?"

"For many reasons. First, I don't believe the manager of your restaurant sent me either the bag or the money. I think your son sent them to me as he knows I'm out of a job this morning and need it just at this time very much."

"If that's the case, why don't you accept it and say nothing? He gave you a very good excuse to do so. I still cannot see why you are bringing it to me."

"Oh, don't you? You own the restaurant, don't you? I believe the management of your restaurant owes me the money and a new bag. Not as good as this one, though. Mine was a very modest little affair. I knew I couldn't get at the truth of the thing by interviewing any of your people and of course neither Jimmy Costello or your son would tell me the truth. I don't intend to be under any obligation to Mr. Gerald Hathaway or any other man. I started out to make my way and I'm going to do it."

"I'm not a cold-blooded man, Mr. Hathaway. Neither am I a person who believes a thing because I want to believe it. Thinking the matter over, it seemed to me that I could only learn the truth from you. That's why I've come, Mr. Hathaway. I think I have a right under the circumstances to ask you to take the bag and the money and make the investigation yourself and let me know what happens."

"You certainly'll get along, Miss Dean. If you try to go through the world the way you've started, I'll tell you what I'll do. I myself will make restitution. Take the bag and the money. I'll pay Jerry back for it. It is my right. You lost it in my restaurant."

He held out the bag to me. "I drew back, my dear," said Mr. Hathaway in a very paternal manner. "Take it and rest assured that I'll make the manager of the Beaux Arts pay for it many, many times over."

"There's only one thing I want you to promise me—that you won't say a word to Gerald about coming here. I also have a note to pick with that young man. What right has he in interfering in my affairs when he has declined to have any responsibility in my business at all?"

"Please, please, Mr. Hathaway, don't have any trouble with your son. He would think I was rather a queer. It was mighty kind of him to take my side in this affair and I wouldn't want him to think that I didn't consider him a regular fellow—one of the few I've met since coming to this town."

The old gentleman looked quite pleased. I could see he had a sneaking liking for his son, anyway. "I won't say anything to him, young lady, unless he opens the subject, but if you want to go back to the restaurant in your old place, I'll see you're at the Beaux Arts for checking station tomorrow night and that every man Friday in the place comes up and apologizes to you."

"That would be very nice—not!" I shall be afraid of my life anyway, after you get through with those people. Thank you just the same, Mr. Hathaway, but I wouldn't go back for your whole chain of restaurants, let alone the Beaux Arts. I'm going out to hunt a new job."

"You'll get it, young woman, you'll get it. Indeed, I'll give you one in my office if you want it."

"Thank you, sir, but I don't know anything about office work. I think I'm going to try for a place in a department store. I saw there was an advertisement for a clerk this morning in the papers, at Alvard's."

"Good luck to you then. I only wish the young men of today started out in the same fashion for what they wanted."

"Well, if what Jimmy Costello told me was true, that's just what you—en did and you didn't seem to approve of that with any great enthusiasm."

"You're very frank, my dear. You don't seem to have any more fear of me than my son."

"Why should I be afraid of you? I think you're a very nice old gentleman."

"Good Lord!" Mr. Hathaway exclaimed. "I'm not so very old, you know."

"I beg your pardon, sir. If you'd gotten rid of a fear of a man like my father, you'd never be afraid of any other man. Good morning, Mr. Hathaway."

I had slipped out the door even before Mr. Hathaway knew I was gone. As I stepped into the hall I heard the violent ringing of his bell and before I got into the elevator, Mr. Hathaway's secretary came running after me, and asked if I would return to Mr. Hathaway's office for a moment as he wanted to see me.

When I went back he asked me for my address, saying he wanted to know where to find me when he'd straightened things out.

I gave him Mamie's address and thanked him.

This time as I was going to the elevator, I ran plump into Sellers, the detective of the Beaux Arts.

He stopped short and looked at me, seemingly in great surprise, and then as it dawned in his mind that probably I had been to see Mr. Hathaway, his face changed and grew quite terrible to look at.

I shuddered a little, as, fascinated, I tried to take my eyes off his face. He saw me cowering away from him, because, for the life of me, I could not help fearing him, and, coming near where I stood waiting for the elevator he said out of the corner of his mouth:

Mind your step, girl mind your step, or you'll find yourself in a hole that you can't jump out of. I'm just going to see the old man now and I'll give him such a description of you that, no matter what you've said, he'll never dream but what you're his."

"I don't know what you mean, sir. You have no right to speak to me." "Yes, you do know what I mean my girl, and I tell you again, mind your step."

I think if the elevator had not come just then I would have screamed. As it was, I was shaking from sheer terror of that cruel, ugly face. The elevator boy looked at me and asked:

"Are you ill, Miss?"

I managed to answer "No," but I was still trembling when I stepped out on the ground floor and looked around somewhat wildly.

"Miss Dean? Where have you been and where are you going?"

I was so glad to see a friendly face that I forgot I had only met Jerry Hathaway the night before, and held out both hands to him.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you!" I exclaimed as he clasped my cold hands in his.

VANITY CASE

by Carolyn Wells

NEA FICTION 1926 by G.P. PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the HEATH household next door one night, and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY. House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, vivacious, pretty, to whom suspicion points because of her peculiar actions.

Myra Heath never used rouge, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old bottle from her collecting that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet; there was a card marked "The work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily rouge!

The strange thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM UNDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency, AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Anderson disagrees. TODD HUNTER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, believes Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress at the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath telling her Inman is guilty. Bunny breaks down and faints under a grilling by DETECTIVE MOTT, who makes up his mind that she is guilty. Cunningham determines to find Perry Heath.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

Meantime, Bunny was returning from a motor ride with Mrs. Prentiss, refreshed in body and mind by the pleasant drive and the cheering companion.

For Mrs. Prentiss was greatly taken with Bunny Moore.

When they reached the Prentiss house, that good lady advised Bunny to run and tidy up for luncheon.

And so it was a serene, almost happy looking girl who came down in a fresh white frock, and joined Mrs. Prentiss and her nephew at the table on the porch.

Beside Bunny's plate lay a sealed note.

With a murmured word of apology, Bunny opened it and her eyes ran over the contents.

"Nothing important," she said, smiling, and carelessly tucked the missive under the napkin in her lap. But she seemed to have acquired a new interest in life.

She was more animated, she spoke gayly, even fling, and once or twice her laughter rang out quite like the Bunny of old times.

Toddhunter Buck was fascinated. The rare beauty of the girl, enlivened by a touch of gay impertinence, charmed the young man almost out of his senses.

Mrs. Prentiss watched the young man with secret amusement, for she had seen her nephew fall in love many times, but it seemed to her that this time he fell a little harder than ever before.

But as she left the table, Bunny's mood suddenly changed.

Rising, she dropped the letter from her lap and when Toddy picked it up and handed it to her, she paled suddenly, and then as quickly flushed again.

"Thank you," she said, but her voice sounded far away, and her eyes looked troubled. "Please, Mrs. Prentiss, may I go to my room for a while? And not be disturbed—unless—unless it's really Prentiss, with her quick intuition, knew the girl meant unless by a summons of the law.

But she only said, "Certainly, my dear. I'll come for you, if it is necessary. Try to get some rest."

Smiling perfunctorily, Bunny went slowly up the stairs.

"Oh, by gosh, Aunt Emily, isn't she just all there is of it?" Toddy cried, clasping his aunt's hands in his own, as he beamed at her.

"Toddhunter," Mrs. Prentiss spoke seriously, "if you are really fond of the girl, you'd better get busy and see what you can do for her. For, I can tell you, my boy, she is in imminent danger of arrest."

"Arrest! Aunt Em, you're crazy!" "No. You're crazy if you can't see where she stands. That man, Mott, has his eagle eye on her, and his claws are itching to clutch at her throat! I tell you, Tod, unless you can find a better suspect, things are going to look very black for Bunny Moore."

Well, Bunny will be railroaded, unless we look alive! There I've told you my opinions, and as you know, your old Aunt is fairly astute in her judgments.

"You bet you are, Aunt Em! Now I'm going to fly at this thing, and if I can't get at the truth of the business, I know somebody who can."

"Who?"

"A friend of mine—a regular detective-kid feller. But I'm going to have a whack myself, first. You see, I've got a hunch!"

"I'm not deeply impressed by that news, Todhunter. I can't think you know a hunch when you see one! If you know a really good detective, you'd better get hold of him than to follow your own silly hunches!"

"I like your pleasant frankness, Auntie, and I believe you're pretty darned near right! But I do want to look into one side of the matter first, and if that doesn't pan out anything, I'll yell for Truitt. That's my friend, Steve Truitt."

"I've heard of him. He's rather celebrated."

"Yes, thought he's a young chap. We were collegio chums, and he's as bright as they come. Well, Auntie, here's my hunch. I think Inman killed the lady. And I think he did it, because he wanted her money. And I think he was not in love with her—no, not by no means—but I think she was in love with him, and he wanted the life out of him. I think he is in love with Bunny—who could help it? And so Myra bored him, and when she begged him to elope with her, he just got mad and—perhaps unintentionally—I mean, upremitatedly, let fly the bottle, and it did for her."

"Ingenious enough. Tod, but nothing to back up such a theory."

"Oh, I don't know!" said her nephew, airily, and went off by himself to think things over.

Strolling about his aunt's grounds, he drifted over to the Heath house, and found Larry Inman alone on a veranda.

"Hello," Inman said "take a seat and sit down."

"Care if I ask you some questions?" Tod said, with a straightforward glance at the other.

"Wish you would. I say, I'm up against it—have you any ideas?" Buck looked at him, curiously.

"Nothing but," he returned. "Haven't you?"

"Ten. But they're all no good. Say, I've told you I have a detective instinct—I believe that's the technical term—can't you ferret out who killed my cousin?"

"Didn't you?"

Buck shot out the words with such clear-cut emphasis and assured intent, that Inman, instead of showing any resentment, merely replied, "No, I didn't do it."

Suddenly Todhunter Buck's heart fell.

He couldn't have explained it himself, but there was something about conviction—a deep conviction—that he was telling the simple truth.

But, "Who did then?" was all he said.

"You're in love with Miss Moore?" Inman asked, quietly, and Toddy, having suddenly taken a liking to this calm person, replied, "yes."

"Then, I'll tell you of the danger she's in. For I'm hoping you can help me to help her."

"You know something?" Buck exclaimed, with a flash of his aunt's sort of intuition.

"Yes, this. I heard a sound on the stairs that night at half past one o'clock, and I opened my door just a crack, and I saw Bunny coming up with her vanity case in her hand, and looking as white as death, and trembling like a leaf."

"And then?"

"Then, after a few moments, I went downstairs, and found Myra dead in the studio. The candles burning at her head and feet—and, Buck—when I felt her outstretched arm, it was still warm!"

25 Years Of Suffering Ended When This Man Took Dreco

Says he could hardly stand the pain inflicted by indigestion. Was also troubled with headaches, constipation and liver troubles.

"I searched for twenty-five years for something to relieve my suffering but Dreco was the only medicine in all that time that helped me," declares Mr. Joseph Och, 114 Ruck St., Pittsburgh, Pa. a fireman and boiler man employed by the Pittsburgh Boiler Works.

"During all this time I suffered terribly with indigestion. I couldn't eat a thing without being troubled afterwards. Gas formed in my stomach and pressed upwards to my heart till I felt like I was being stabbed with a knife. I had no appetite at all and when I did eat I selected the most easily digested foods.

"I lost weight and grew pale and sallow. My liver and bowels were very sluggish and I suffered from severe headaches all the time. I was always tired, even when I got up in the morning, and had little energy or ambition.

"But Dreco fixed me up in a short time and after finishing the fourth bottle I was entirely free of all stomach distress. Now I can eat anything without being troubled the least bit with my stomach and to see me at the table you'd think I was trying to make up for all the meals I had missed in the past. My liver and bowels are now normal and the headaches haven't bothered me since I took the first bottle of Dreco. Dreco is a medicine I can recommend to anyone for it made me well when everything else had failed."

Mr. W. V. Martin, the well-known expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schintz Bros. downtown drug store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

BEGIN TRIAL OF $5,000 SUIT FOR ILLEGAL ARREST

Plaintiff Says He Was Lodged in Jail Without Sufficient Warrant

The case of Arthur Hoier, Hortonville, seeking $5,000 damages for alleged false arrest and imprisonment opened before Judge Theodore Berg and a jury in the higher branch of municipal court Friday morning. The jury was drawn several days ago.

In his complaint Hoier alleges Motorcycle Patrolman Alfred Dunn arrested him without proper warrant, at the behest of Deputy Sheriff Ernest R. Fenske, Symco garage owner, for whom Hoier was working last May.

Hoier, it is reported, was arrested at his father's farm near Hortonville by the motorcycle officer and a car sold to him on contract was returned to Fenske.

The next day, it is said Fenske dropped prosecution but Hoier was brought into the jail to confer with the sheriff regarding alleged over-payment of many payments to his former wife and held pending Fenske's decision. He was released after a short stay in the jail, it was pointed out.

SUES EMPLOYER
Mr. Fenske was made principal defendant in the action brought by Hoier through his attorney E. C. Smith. District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf was employed to defend the officers. It was expected the case would reach the jury Friday.

Mr. Fenske gave Hoier employment after Hoier had made arrangements to pay a certain proportion of his earnings each week toward the support of his former wife and their child, it was stated.

Last May the garage proprietor left Hoier in charge of his plant at Symco and upon his return found that Hoier had left with a car the garage man had sold him; Fenske also decided at the time that some tools were missing, it was alleged.

Upon restitution of the car and accessories Fenske, it was brought out, did not wish to prosecute.

The combination of circumstances placed Hoier in the position of being under arrest without a warrant being duly sworn out, the defense contends.

Cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably showers and local thunderstorms; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure continues low over the central states, with rains during the past 24 hours over most of the northern states from the Rockies eastward. High pressure is developing over the Hudson Bay territory and is influencing conditions over the northern and eastern lake region. The low pressure area appears to be the dominating factor in this section, however, and continued unsettled weather may be expected tonight and Saturday, probably with local showers. No material changes in temperature are anticipated.

FIFTY HUNTERS GET LICENSES

Expect to Empower Notaries in Villages to Issue Hunting Permits

Duck hunters who have started to oil their guns for the opening of the season, Sept. 16, are beginning to apply for hunting licenses in large numbers with the result that County Clerk John E. Hantschel wrote out license No. 50, Friday morning.

Arrangements have been made with the Wisconsin Conservation commission whereby any notary public may be appointed by Mr. Hantschel to issue permits. These licenses have to be procured, however, through the applicant making his wants known in writing. For this application the notary public is allowed to collect a 25-cent fee but receives no remuneration or commission deductible from the payment for the actual license.

In past years a license agency has been established by the county clerk in each of the seven villages of the county but final arrangements have not been completed so far this year as to whether there are notaries in the villages willing to undertake the issuance of the licenses.

Mr. Hantschel said Friday that he is checking up on the matter and probably will appoint persons for the work in strategic locations in the near future. During the interim licenses can only be procured at his office, it was pointed out.

Women Agree Buying Hats Is Most Difficult Task

Every woman knows and admits that a hat is the most difficult part of her wearing apparel to buy. Without that finishing touch that only the perfectly fitted hat can give, even the most wonderful effects of a perfect dress, a pair of sheer chiffon hose, and the nattiest shoes are almost obliterated. The lines and general shape of the face, the makeup of the features, the figure, all must be satisfied by the hat.

Today, however, with some 73 different styles of women's hairstyles in vogue, the problem of finding the correct hat has become three times more difficult than it was four years ago. Then, the sizes usually ran from 23 to 25. Now, however, they run all the way from 19 to 27. For example, a boyish-bob demands one of the smallest head-sizes made, for no hair should show; while some shingles and fancier styles of bobs can be fitted only by an extra large crown.

HAT MUST FIT FACE
"Beside the general contour of the face, or the figure, or the style of haircut," one milliner explains, "there are many facial characteristics to be taken into consideration in selecting a suitable hat. The chin, the location of the eyes, the shape and angle of the nose, all influence the careful woman in her selection."

"A woman with a rather narrow face and a receding chin should never wear one of the large hats so popular now, that is, one with a narrow brim in back and a large, sweeping one in front. However, to the same woman without the weak chin could wear the hat beautifully." As for fat women, this milliner believes that many a fat lady can walk out under a tiny, close-fitting model that, one of her sisters in distress, would leave the impression of a doll's hat. This is because she has a full, yet firm, face. Fat, pudgy cheeks are death on tiny hats.

SHAPES CHANGE FEATURES
"The woman with eyes set close together should wear a hat that gradually widens from the back of the neck to the points opposite the temples," she adds. "It is a method of camouflage to give the impression of widely separated eyes."

On the other hand, there are many milliners who disagree with her. Some of them claim that the only way to see what kind of hat a certain type of a woman can or cannot wear, is to try it on her. It is the custom, moreover, of the more exclusive shops never to tell a woman that a hat looks "perfectly stunning" on her unless it really does.

The time that it takes a woman to buy a hat varies from 15 minutes to three days. Stenographers, clerks, and other girls of the same type seem to be able to find just what they want in the shortest space of time. Many women of means, however, often return several times to look at the same hats, and then become angry the third day because the hat they thought they liked has been sold. Yet these same cases are just as often completely reversed. No general rule can be stated as to the time it takes either certain Sought Health In Caves.

Years ago sufferers from tuberculosis tried to live in Mammoth Cave, believing they could recover health there. Science now knows sunlight and warmth were needed instead of cold dampness.

The interesting history of the Kentucky caves, with pictures of their strange grandeur, is told in a booklet from our Washington Information Bureau.

Almost as interesting as a trip through the subterranean wonders, this booklet tells all about one of the marvels of our country.

HAGEN-WATROUS MATCH POSTPONED TO SUNDAY

Appearance Of Crack Pros On Local Links Set Back A Day By Hagen's Manager

Hagen Carded to Play at Gary, Ind., on Saturday, Boss Says

Walter Hagen, Pasadena, Fla., the nation's greatest linksman, and Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich., first pro to finish in the 1926 British Open Meet, will play on the Butte des Morts Country club links here Sunday afternoon rather than Saturday as previously scheduled, according to club officials. The men will play a foursome with Frank Walsh, Butte des Morts pro and Ken Dickinson, 1925 state amateur champ, as the other members.

The Butte des Morts course will be closed to golfers and every one else at noon Sunday in preparation for the big match. The match will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Hagen's manager evidently got his dates mixed, thinking the Hags was to play here Saturday. When he received a poster on the match he immediately wired local club officials that Hagen could not be here Saturday as he was scheduled to play at Gary, Ind. The manager arrived Friday afternoon and since then the officials have been spending plenty of time and worry in changing the date. Finally the insurance company with whom the club had taken out rain insurance agreed to make a one-day change in its policy and to make things perfect. Al Watrous wired Friday night of the change, stating that he could be here Sunday rather than Saturday. Otherwise another star would have had to been "hired" on short notice. Work of the officials of the club and match in making all necessary arrangements for the change should be highly commended by local golfers.

Watrous again finished first in the Michigan Open which he held this week, finishing 11 full strokes ahead of his nearest opponent. Only golf statisticians and personal friends of Al are able to tell how many times he has won the title, it has been so numerous. And he is improving each year, making the going easier, so that he probably will hold a world's record for winning state open meets soon. He has topped about 10 o fives last 2. In few years he may be winning by a full 18 strokes, at the pace he is going.

START PLANS FOR 1927 CAGE LOOP

Appleton One of 12 Cities Desiring Place in Home Talent League

Appleton is one of twelve cities which already have asked for a franchise in the Fox River Valley Home Talent Basketball loop this winter, according to a report from Fond du Lac. The league, last year was known as the Eastern Wisconsin as was the baseball league but the name is expected to be changed this year. Last year was the first season and it was fairly successful. Either six or eight teams will be given franchises, probably the latter, because of the number of applications. Four teams, Kimberly, Appleton, Fondy and Menasha were the entrants last year.

All of these teams but Menasha have asked for franchises and they probably will be granted as these squads were "charter members." Others of the twelve teams applying are Neenah, Green Bay, Oshkosh, West Bend, Plymouth, Kiel, Mayville, Watertown and Waupun. With a six team loop, Appleton, Kimberly, Oshkosh, Neenah, Fondy and Green Bay probably will be the entrants, they being the same teams which are members of the valley home talent baseball loop. The Moose again will sponsor Fondy's team with the K-C club, aiding at Kimberly. Last year the Legion sponsored the Appleton team. Pete Lepine, valley loop umpire, coached the Fondy team last year, has been reappointed to the job.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

JOYCE WETHERED—OVERCOMING SLICE
Of all the faults that one can acquire at golf, there is not one which is so depressing as "slicing." The least bit of a slice on a ball gives one a feeling of dissatisfaction, and the habit must not be allowed to grow. It is caused by the face of the club cutting across the ball, and the faulty action which causes this must be sought. As a rule, failure to pivot from the waist, and a general constraining of the necessary movements, are the causes of a slice. The club-head is drawn across the ball instead of being hurled at it, and after it by the body coming through too soon. If the club-head is allowed to load, slicing is almost impossible.
The player who is suffering from an attack of slicing would be well advised to take a dozen balls to an open space and slash at them with perfect freedom.
I do not hesitate to say that she would hit the majority of them as straight as a die and regain lost faith to cure, mainly because it is the most unpleasant.
If the player cannot overcome the slice it is because of a fault. Better the professional at once.

NIXON WILL TRY IRON MAN STUNT SUNDAY, MONDAY

Star Neenah Hurler Who Won Last Five, Will Face Bays and Loop Leaders

Neenah — Nixon, Neenah's premier hurler, is going to attempt an "iron man" stunt over the week end. In other words, the husky right hander is going to toe the mound for Larsen & Co., at Green Bay on Sunday and again take up the hurling duties for Neenah in the Labor Day game at Oshkosh.

This will be a stiff test for the speed ball hurler and, if he should bump off both these first division clubs, there would be no chances for any argument as to Nixon's mound ability.

Despite the fact that up until last Sunday Neenah was lone occupant of the cellar, Nixon was rated highly in league circles as a box artist. Neenah has won six games this season and Nixon delivered each of the victories.

Larsen's outfit celebrated July 4 by coping their first game of the season at the expense of Green Bay. The rest of the month was winless for Neenah but the first Sunday in August, Nixon, who had been on the shelf with a bad ankle, hobbled into the game and beat Green Bay again.

This started Neenah on winning streak which hasn't ended yet and, according to the players, it is going to continue until the end of the season. After the win at Green Bay, Neenah upset Oshkosh. Then Fond du Lac fell victim. Appleton was the next to bow to Nixon's benders and last Sunday Kimberly bit the dust. In other words, Nixon and Neenah have made a clean sweep around the circuit, and, during the spurt, climbed from a hopeless tail ender up to fourth position in the Fox River Valley pennant chase.

According to reports in circulation here, Otto Borchert, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers has had one of his "ivory hunters" camping tight on Nixon's trail for the past three games and it is understood that the big hurler has been offered a contract with the Brewers. Even Nixon's strongest followers doubt if it is ripe for a ball but they agree that a year in a Class C or D circuit will top him off nicely for a bright future in upper class baseball.

HEAVY HITTER
Nixon is one of the heaviest hitters on the Neenah club and he has the habit of getting his blows when they count. In a recent game against Fondy, Nixon got four safe hits and three of 'em cut a figure in the run getting. The Neenah pitcher is only 21 years old. He was married about two months ago.

KELLEY CONTINUES AS BUFFALO'S HOMER KING

Bill Kelley of Buffalo continues to lead the home run parade in the International League. The other day Bill combed his thirty-seventh circuit-mash. He's now 19 to the good and looks like the winner of the four-ply hat honors in that organization.

Pasadena, Calif.—Jackie Field, former Olympic featherweight champion, beat Sailor Ashmore, Los Angeles, lightweight (8).

WORLD'S BEST HERE ON SUNDAY

WALTER HAGEN

Walter Hagen, holder of more golf titles and records than any linksman in the world, will traverse the Butte des Morts Country clubs links Sunday for the second time in the two years since the course was built. Hagen was greatly impressed with the course and Frank Walsh, its pro, last year and Walsh was able to secure his return when they competed in the Western open Chicago district meets in the last two weeks.

Manitowoc Hopes High As Eight Veterans Are Back

Manitowoc—With eight letter men back in the fold, all veterans of one and two seasons' service, Coach John sees, for the first time in the five years he has been here, a possibility of moulding a winning eleven to support the name of this city. Ten athletes of the 1925 team were taken away by graduation. Ineligibility, usually a hard customer, has failed to leave its mark on the remaining number.

Heading the list of candidates for the team is Captain Danny Peppard, a half-back of state-wide note, who has won first choice positions at one of the halves on all conference teams for two seasons. Peppard held a quarter back berth on the 1925 Red and White eleven, then in his freshman year, and has played one of the halves and called signals the last two years. He is a triple-threat man, being a dependable kicker, a marvel when working on a pass attack and unbeatable as an end-stirring speed merchant. Coach John will build his offense around Peppard and the 150 pounds of fight and fury will, in all possibilities, take the safety position on the defensive.

Paul Fischl, another two year veteran, will carry the team's punting and kicking responsibility. Fischl has grown to gross proportions, tipping the beams at near 175, and will likely be found at the plunging position for the first game. His punting last season won him laurels as one of the most dependable boosters in the conference.

"Tank" Mahanke, one who well fits his moniker, should gain by his two years' experience with the team and take a guard or tackle hole in the line to advantage. Tank has had difficulty in making a regular station but is given favor to make the line this fall. For running mates Mahanke will have Meyer, another 200 pound baby. Bossett, a green but willing heavy-weight, and Hogan, the fourth of the house-moving quartet.

The snapper-back berth is undecided but Hanson is being looked forward to as the logical choice for the position. The guard on the team not yet filled in the fan's mind. Tackle posts will be well fortified by weight, speed and brains. Towler, a long geared roving giant has a stranglehold on one of the forts while the fight for the other tackle will be between Murphy, a welcome new-comer of no small proportions, and Mahanke, whose speed and weight may give him over from guard to tackle. The ends are well taken care of. Hughes, a dependable pass grabber and defensive end, held the right flank to satisfaction last fall and will be welcomed for the same end while smart fans concede the other flank to Roy Scherer, Irish for one thing and with a style much the same as Mac McConnell for another. Scherer has been out of school for two years but

SAINTS AND RAIN HALT BREWS AS KERS SPLIT

St. Paul—Everything and everyone, including the weatherman, seems to be conspiring against our hopeful Brews. Through the conspiracy of Raymond Carlos Kolp the Saints took the first game here Thursday afternoon, 4 to 0, and through the intervention of Jupe Flutius, the boys were forced to knock off work in the second game with the Brews leading, 6 to 0, in the third inning.

SUNDAY GAMES

Combined Locks at Oneida. Wrightstown at Little Chute.

Freedom lost a win in the percent-age column of the Intercounty loop this week and Wrightstown has had one of its losses struck off as the result of the settling of the protested game played by the teams at Wrightstown a month ago. Freedom won but Wrightstown protested when with the bases filled in the ninth and two runs needed to tie, the umpire called a Wrightstown pinch hitter out after the first ball has crossed the plate, for not reporting to him. The loop officials decided to throw the tilt out and play it over on Sept. 19, after the schedule is completed. This step pulled Freedom from a full game lead with 9-5, 648 to a full game lead with 9-5, 643 to a half-game lead over its nearest rivals with 8-5, 615. Wrightstown was raised from a game from second to a half-game from that position and a game from the top by a change from 7-7, 500 to 7-6, 538. Thus the protested game payoff may decide the loop banner, if other games go right.

The most important battle scheduled for Sunday, the first place struggle between Freedom and Depere, a half-game from the top, has been postponed until Sept. 12 and will be played at Freedom instead of Depere. The "tilt" only two lesser tilts for Sunday, the last day of the loop scheduled.

Combined Locks can pull up to a less than a half game from the top, in fact .015, by a win Sunday and then will tie with Depere for the flag if Depere conquers Freedom on Sept. 12 to send that crew into third. Wrightstown now has a chance for a high place and a win Sunday will tie it with Depere in third if the Locks men win and shove it ahead of the Locksmen into second if that crew loses.

GREENVILLE BALLERS WHIP SHIOCTON NINE

The Greenville Cubs defeated Shiocton Sunday afternoon at Greenville, by a score of 10-4 before a large crowd. The game was marked by a first fight in the opening frame when the Shiocton third sacker disputed the umpire's decision and a blacked eye and bloody nose resulted before the fight was stopped. Shiocton lead 3-2 in the fifth but then the winner got four in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Mulry of Shiocton fanned 13 batters and Sommers, Greenville hurler, got 6. A homerun by D. Schultz, Greenville second sacker, which scored two men ahead of him in the sixth featured the tilt. A three-bagger by Bestha, Greenville outfielder, was the only one of the tilt. Sunday Greenville plays Dale.

OWEN CARROLL IN BIG SEASON FOR TORONTO

Owen Carroll, formerly Holy Cross pitching ace, and tried out by the Detroit Tigers last year, has won 16 games and lost but seven with Toronto in the International League. Carroll has fanned 191 batters and leads the circuit in this respect by a wide margin. He's done much to shove the Maple Leafs to the top.

Dempsey Hates Only Two Foes Of Squared Circle, Fulton And Harry Wills

Plasterer Called Champ Faker but Jack Pounded Him All Over Ring

This is the fourth of a series of 10 articles by Joe Williams, fistie critic of NEA Service, Inc., relating some of the more interesting and unusual episodes in the pugilistic career of Champion Jack Dempsey.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

When the layman tosses a set of belligerent knuckles at his neighbor he does so because he has become provoked to a point of fury. It's hard for him to understand the impersonal feeling professional nose-busters bring to their business.

It's particularly hard for him to understand the strange contrasting emotions of Jack Dempsey, mild-mannered out of the ring, yet a snarling savage in action. Dempsey leaps to the attack with a ferocity that seems born of a deep undercurrent of hostility.

Yet Dempsey says he has fought only once against an opponent whom he took an animal-like delight in battering to the floor. That man was Fred Fulton, the collapsible St. Paul heavyweight.

Fulton had put Dempsey on the toaster, calling him a faker, a product of the ballyhoo and a candidate for the heavyweight crown whose pretensions were as false as a three-dollar blue white diamond.

"I socked that baby a beauty!" chuckled Dempsey. "I felt him into an opening with my left and then popped him with my right and he went down like a load of hard coal."

"I didn't even stop to look at him when he went down. I knew when that punch landed he was through for the night. I had put everything I had into it. If I ever hit anybody harder it wasn't because I meant to."

The fight Dempsey refers to took place in 1918 and Fulton was counted out in the first round after less than two minutes of fighting.

The only other fighter in the business whom Dempsey has ever guessed it, Harry Wills. He may not admit it openly but he dislikes the semi-huge gent only slightly less enthusiastically than a picnicer does red ants and show-ers.

I've never been able to decide in my own mind whether Dempsey is giving Wills the run-around on account of fear or what. Last spring he told me he would never let Wills make a dime by fighting him.

Then in the next gust of lung breeze he said he'd welcome a chance to punch Wills around in a private rough-house fight.

"Some day I'll get him in the 'sack position that Jim Jeffries got Jack Johnson and I'll see what he'll do."

I didn't know what position this was so Dempsey told me how Johnson had drifted into Jeff's saloon out in "Frisco" back in 1908 or thereabouts and Jeff dared the negro to go down in the basement and fight with bare fists.

Dempsey indicated he would welcome that kind of a battle with Wills. I thought this was a lot of okra soup at the time but he was subsequent action in asking Wills to cover $150,000 and to battle on a winner-take-all basis gives it a note of sincerity.

Oddly enough, one of the fighters Dempsey likes best is Firpo, the bull, and this in spite of the fact that the bull horned him clear over the ropes and out into the crowd, giving him what has easily been his most embarrassing moment.

"It was fun fighting that guy," Dempsey says. "It was fun because he could hit and he was always trying to hit. That put it up to me to get him quick and to be careful about how I got him. There was a split of high adventure in that fight that I liked."

Another of Dempsey's favorites is Georges Carpentier. He lauds him as a "swell fellow" and "nobody's sucker in the ring."

Jess Willard is the only one of his opponents he ever felt sorry for. "I still have mind-flashes of old Jess sitting on his stool at Toledo with his eyes closed and his lip split," says Dempsey. "I hated to look at him." (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

LOCAL LINKSMEN PLAY INTERCLUB MATCH SATURDAY

Riverview Invades Butte des Morts With Hagen, Watrous Date Changed

With the postponement of the feature golf match at Butte des Morts Country club in which Walter Hagen and Al Watrous were scheduled to play, from Saturday afternoon to Sunday afternoon, the interclub match between the two local clubs will be played Saturday afternoon at the Butte des Morts links. The match had been scheduled for Saturday when the year's program was made out but it was postponed to give way to the feature match. Riverview club will be represented by a strengthened team and the match should be close from start to finish.

Monday the qualifying round of the club championship starts at Butte des Morts club. The final match for the Presidents cup at Butte des Morts Country club between H. H. Pelkey and J. H. Cline, scheduled for Sunday, will be postponed until next week, as the result of the change in date of the Hagen-Watrous-Walsh-Dickinson match. The Presidents match cannot be played on Saturday as it takes all day, being a 36-hole match.

In the interclub match, as many players as desire enter from each club and they are matched with members of the other club according to their ability, so that all have a chance to win against rivals of equal calibre. The Nassau system of scoring is used. This gives the winner of each nine holes a point, while if one man takes both nine from his opponent, he receives a third point for winning the match.

GENE TUNNEY GOLFS AS TRAINING FOR BIG GO

Stroudsburg, Pa. (AP)—Gene Tunney, fighter and golfer, is training for his next fight at the club house of the Glen Brook Golf Club. There is a heavyweight chef in the kitchen. George Ransberry weighs almost as much as Tunney and Dempsey combined.

The club house is in the midst of an attractive nine hole golf course and Tunney plans to play often. His final match is around 30. Tunney got no golf on his first day in his new camp. Rain kept him indoors all day except for a short walk.

New York—Busby Graham, Utica, N. Y., beat Chick Suggs, New Bedford (10). Al Brown, Panama, beat Joe Ryder, Brooklyn (4).

French Netters Have Best Chance To Take Davis Cup

BY ART CARLSON

New York—Twelve years ago this summer Australia, with the celebrated Norman Brookes and Anthony Wilding in the forefront, beat the United States in Davis cup play.

That was the year the mighty Maurice McLoughlin kept America in the running by whipping Brookes and Wilding, as sensational a pair as ever roamed the tennis courts. McLoughlin defeated Brookes in straight sets, the first, at 17-15, being one of the greatest ever waged in the historic jumboree. Wilding took one set from the redhead, but dropped the other three.

Despite the stellar work of McLoughlin, however, America was forced to bow in defeat, 3 to 2. Dick Williams, "Mac's" partner, lost both matches, while Tom Bundy and McLoughlin took a licking together in the doubles.

The rumblings of the World War were being heard at the time. Brookes and Wilding, after carting the famous cup back to their native Australia, entered the services. A few months later Wilding was killed, thus breaking up one of the outstanding combinations in tennis annals.

Since America took that defeat in 1914, no invading force has been able to conquer Uncle Sammy's boys in the challenge round. From 1920 through last year (Davis cup play was suspended during the war) the United States representatives have turned back all assaults. Moreover, they've done it in a decisive fashion, dropping but two matches in 30. If that isn't showing conclusive supremacy, the English channel is only a millpond.

Six straight seasons America has swept through Australia, Japan and France like a tornado in the west (or wherever one blows up). No other nation can boast such a feat; no other country has been able to cling to such an exacting pace in all the years the much-cherished cup has been up for competition.

But this season—well, it looks like a vastly different tale may be unfolded. As was the case last year, a French menace looms again. Further, it looms larger and better.

Last year, you'll recall, Lacoste and Borotra and the rest of the gang from sunny France (as the verse-writers say) kept even the great Tilden bustling. Lacoste and Borotra all but shoved lanky William in the mire, something, by the way, which has never happened to the Quaker since he's been a member of the Davis cup ensemble.

This season Lacoste, Borotra and Bruchon are back again. With them is Henri Cochet, another sensation. These lads have been playing top-notch tennis all season. Lacoste and Borotra battered their way to success in the indoor nationals last winter and repeated at Wimbledon two months ago.

France's recent defeat of Japan in the inter-zone finals showed the Frogs to be ready to tackle Tilden. Johnston, et al., for the greatest prize in tennis. True, Lacoste fell to Harada, but he redeemed himself later.

Of course, France may not whip America this year. But I do believe it has the best chance any invading team has had since that memorable clash in 1914 when Brookes and Wilding put the old kilosh on McLoughlin and his playmates.

France has a youthful outfit (Bruchon is a veteran, but he didn't even get in the games last year) and it's improving all the while.

America's quartet, on the other side, is showing the signs of wear and tear. Tilden, at 33, is slipping. Johnston, 31, is not the Johnston of old, though still dangerous in any corner. Williams has been campaigning since 1912 and is on the downward trail. Richards, alone, has youth besides being at the peak of play.

Even so, France may yet be unequal to the task of halting the remarkable American dynasty, but sooner or later the Tri-color should reach the dizzy heights—and it wouldn't be surprising were such a thing to happen at Germantown next month when the annual argument comes up for debate.

SULTAN PAYS PREMIER DUBIOUS COMPLIMENT

Paris (AP)—The Sultan of Morocco received a truly regal welcome in France, and the "successor of the prophet," commander of the faithful, was delighted. One of the stories told of his visit is this:

"Facing the then premier M. Briand across the banquet table at the Quai d'Orsay, M. Yussuf, 'deignous of expressing his gratitude to the French government and its chief, said: 'Mr. Premier you are my father.' The sultan put all his heart in this sentence, which for a reason is the supreme expression of gratitude.

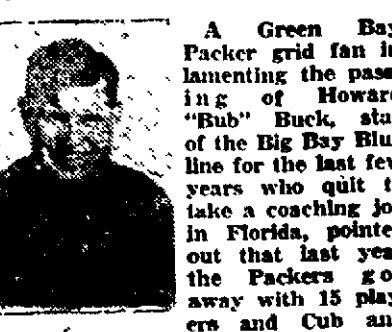

M. Briand received the compliment with all the dignity befitting a premier of France, smiling and bowing to the sultan.

But he confided in a low voice to his table neighbor: "Fortunately there are no ladies present. He makes me feel too old."

Dave's Dots And Dashes

A Green Bay Packer grid fan in lamenting the passing of Howard "Bub" Buck, star of the Big Bay Blue line for the last few years who quit to take a coaching job in Florida, pointed out that last year the Packers got away with 15 plays and Cub and that this year they will try to worry along with 22 men. This estimate gives Neenah's big boy a rating of about six good football players, many of whom are all-conference selections. Cub will referee the opening Packer game with Iron Mountain on Sept. 12.

The Wisconsin Reformatory nine has booked two tough encounters over the week end on the Prison diamond. Saturday afternoon, the inmates tangle with the Appleton Coated Paper Co. nine while Labor Day morning, the Reformatory mixes with the Northern Millers. Green Bay Industrial league champs.

Next week sees the scholastic footballers shake out of their mole skins and start chasing the cowhide. The fall term of school gets under way on Tuesday and the Little Eight members are not going to waste any time, getting their hopes in shape for the tough encounters ahead.

Chief Williams, the veteran ballout-felder, is looking for the jinx that he claims has crossed his path. After playing errorless ball all season, the Chief dropped one in the Fondy game. It was his first miscue of a fly ball in four years. At least, that's what the Chief says.

Lennie Zelinski, a Menasha boy, former member of the Menasha Falls, in the old State league, has signed a contract with the Columbus A. A. club. Zelinski has been playing a bang up game around the redlight bag for the Wausau lumberjacks ever since he was turned loose by the Madison Blues ball squad.

Rube Noble, who has been pitching ball around these parts for a number of seasons, finally tossed his way into baseball's hall of fame when he twirled a no-hit no-run game against the Chicago Niesens. Noble was doing his stuff for Madison where he has been residing since LaCrosse blew up.

The doubles tennis tournament which will be staged by the Doty club in Neenah on Sept. 11 and 12 is creating a lot of interest in Northeastern Wisconsin net circles. A number of entries are already on file. The championship trophy is now held by McMillan and Laborde, an Oshkosh pair.

CHIEF POINTS TO PRACTICES WHICH CAN CAUSE FIRES

Piles of Rubbish and Gasoline Vapors Frequent Sources of Trouble

A warning against certain practices which many times result in fire and the destruction of life and property has been issued by Chief George P. McGillan of the Appleton Fire department. The statement warns against rubbish pile fires, gasoline fires, kerosene fires, lamp fires and fires caused by children playing with matches.

"A trash pile or rubbish heap in basement or yard is an invitation to fire," he said, and proves a drain on the resources not only of the owner of the building in which the fire starts, but also on owners of adjacent property in the shape of increased insurance rates and a greater fire tax. Just why people will persist in harboring trash and rubbish which is a menace to valuable property and precious lives is beyond the comprehension of those who think in terms of safety to lives and property.

"If you set your neighbor's property on fire willfully, the prison door opens for you; if your deliberate carelessness sets his property on fire, the effect on him is just the same, and you ought to be punished."

"Gasoline vapor is much heavier than air and does not rise, but floats along the floor like water, seeking and filling the low places. The slightest spark from a horseshoe, a tool or iron or any flame will cause a violent explosion. The source of the spark may be fifty feet or more from the source of the vapor and will then flash back to the gasoline. One gallon of gasoline has the explosive power of eighty-three pounds of dynamite. It will give off 130 times its bulk in vapor, and when vaporized will convert 1,500 times its volume of air into a high explosive. The use of gasoline in the home, the dry cleaning plant, the garage and car owner cannot exercise too much care in handling and storing this dangerous explosive.

"In spite of repeated warnings," Chief McGillan declared, "reports of torture and deaths, and destruction of homes by reason of using kerosene to quicken sluggish fires continue to reach us. Some who live through the harrowing experience of this bad practice think they must have made a mistake and use gasoline instead of kerosene. This is not so. If any fire or live coals are in the firebox, an explosion is almost certain to result when kerosene is poured or thrown in. It is safer to provide proper kindling. "Glass bowl lamps, particularly high lamps with a small base, are always dangerous. A metal bowl and broad base makes the lamp much safer.

"Too much cannot be said against the almost criminal practice of leaving matches within easy reach of children, particularly when they are alone in the home, sometimes locked in while parents are out at work, visit ing, shopping, or at the movies."

HOW'S THAT?

"Tell me, why did you break into the polish factory?"

"Things weren't looking any too bright for me, sir"—Ulk, Berlin.

Enjoy Extra Goodness

It's that finishing touch in the manufacture of Lucky Strike cigarettes which is distinctive.

To begin with, they are made of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and perfectly blended.

But extra goodness comes from a costly added process, a final touch—toasting.

Lucky Strikes are distinctive because of:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

If you haven't yet adopted Luckies, you're missing these added enjoyments. So smoke them for a trial. Learn why millions prefer them.

Waupun's "Man Of Mystery" Ending 54 Years Behind Prison Walls

BY CAMDEN H. WEST
SULLEN or in sullen insensibility to pain or concentrated thought, with prison drawn lips slowly moving as age dimmed eyes telegraphed a blurred message to his fast fading intelligence. Old "Bill" Maxwell sits waiting—waiting behind prison walls to participate in the biennial birthday party celebrated in the state of Wisconsin—Old Bill, a birthday cake, with 55 candles this year, and the grim shadow of death creeping closer and ever closer, will be the only guests—if the oldest "lifer" behind prison walls cheats the scythe of the Grim Reaper until October 25.

KILLED HIS RIVAL
In Marinette Co., three miles out of the city, 55 years ago, William Maxwell killed a man in a drunken rage over a woman of ill repute, with whom he had been living at a roadside inn where men of the north gathered for orgies of debauchery germane to an almost forgotten era. The building still stands, isolated and reminiscent of ghosts of the past.

Maxwell, so the story of old timers goes, became enraged when he heard that his common law wife was out heartily riding with a former sweetheart who had many times tried to persuade her to leave her environment, marry him and return to a life of decency. Lying in wait just inside the door of the bar-room of the resort Maxwell ambushed his prey as the couple were about to enter—shot once with an old fashioned ball pistol and his rival lay dead at his feet with a bullet through his forehead.

The woman swooned and Maxwell dashed for freedom. Several hours later a posse hastily gathered captured the murderer in a swamp north of Marinette, now suburban to Marinette. Headed by a blacksmith the ugly mob, muttering vengeance, marched their prisoner to an ideal scaffold—a sturdy arch built of hewn timber with rawhide strips hanging from its beam, a warning for breakmen to lie flat on moving trains—bridge ahead!

From somewhere in the swathing crowd, clad in their racous hued Mackinaws, a rone made its appearance. Logging teamsters knew the intricacies of the hangman's knot.

READY TO DIE
Bill, then 33 years old, was asked if he had anything to say, did he want to make his peace with his soul before the horse on which he was seated was driven out from under him. "No, you bums, not a word—get this foolishness over with any time you're ready—say someone gimme a drink before I shake hands with the devil, will you," was Maxwell's reply. The few eyewitnesses still alive fail to remember whether or not the drink was forthcoming.

A sharp cut of a quirt across the flanks of the horse, a trembling of the cross beam of the railroad arch and a man's body swaying at the end of a tight rope greeted the eyes of another witness who arrived to demand in the name of the law that nothing not be done in northern Wisconsin.

With one deputy at his side and both men with guns drawn, the sheriff cut down what the mob believed to be the lifeless body of Maxwell.

A few flourishes of the deputy's guns, an appropriate amount of profanity to "back up the order" and the mob dispersed convinced that they had avenged a brutal slaying.

BILL IS PEEVED
Sending his deputy for a buckboard to remove the supposed corpse the sheriff started to examine the "prisoner."

Bill Maxwell stirred, he opened his eyes.

"Why the h— did you cut me down, why didn't you leave me strung up, that's where I belong," were Bill's first words when he recovered consciousness to realize that an inscrutable Fate had cheated the vengeance of the posse.

This one statement was virtually his last until after he had been removed to the jail at Oconto, tried on a charge of first degree murder and quickly sentenced to life imprisonment at Waupun.

Always a silent man even when in his favorite haunts of vice none knew or knows from whence Bill Maxwell came, nor why.

Taken to Waupun Maxwell has lived to see the regime of a half century pass, the abolition of the dungeons, the coming of daylight prisons, kindhearted parole boards, light, airy workrooms and good food, medical attention and sanitation.

From the moment the gates closed behind him Maxwell became a more bound but model prisoner. Bill it might be said worked in the "jute" when working in prison mills was diametrically opposed to the most accurate conceptions of a sinecure. Bill worked in the yards, in the kitchens and in the prison factories.

MAN OF MYSTERY

No warden can remember when Maxwell ever spoke unless spoken to when Maxwell ever received a postal card, a letter or package or when he ever expressed a desire to communicate by writing or word of mouth with a living soul, outside or inside prison gates.

A man of mystery he entered, a man of mystery he remains.

For many years he delivered bundles of raw material to other prisoners in the prison tailor shop but of more recent years his work has been lightened to a virtual minimum and he spends most of his waking and sleeping hours in the prison infirmary reading or dozing on a chair, close to a cot.

Literature is and always has been his only diversion while serving nearly three score years in prison cells. Maxwell, according to Warden Oscar Lee, abhors modernity and social progress with an almost fanatical intensity.

Never has the prisoner seen a prison ball game, attended chapel or in the "liberty" gatherings within those gray stone walls. None of these things being required of a man regime the aged prisoner has been allowed to pursue the even tenor of his ways, morose, taciturn, an enigma complete, Warden

Offers of various agencies to seek his release have always been spurned— "I want no friends—probably he has been pardoned years ago but Bill is a fixture at Waupun."

Old "Bill" Maxwell is 55 years old, and after there will be 55 candles on the special cake that Mr. Lee will supply but there will be only one live man at the gruesome feast—and a shadow.

Future Time will be the "board of control" to act on Bill's parole—from prison to the Hereafter.

Death will be his messenger.

START LAST TWO ROAD BUILDING JOBS OF YEAR

Koepe Brothers Co., contractors, expected to start laying concrete Friday morning on a short stretch of county road work near Black Creek on state trunk highway 76. It was reported Thursday by A. G. Brusewitz, Frank Murphy and the Bingham-county highway commissioner.

Ten Gravel Co. have also started operations on a long stretch of gravel between Shiocton and Bear Creek, the commissioner said. Mr. Murphy is putting in the crushed rock base while the Binghamton people are handling the gravel end of the job.

Although the contract expiration date is Dec. 1, on the latter work indications are that it probably will be completed before that time, it was said.

The 1926 new construction program will terminate with the completion of these two contracts.

UTILITIES URGED TO CUT DISTRIBUTION COST

Eau Claire—(AP)—Reduction in electric rates, without impairment of service, was urged as the aim of Wisconsin power companies by G. G. Pest, Milwaukee, at the convention here Friday of the electric section of the Wisconsin Utilities association, of which he is chairman.

Production costs have been reduced, he said, and the industry's engineers should concentrate on research designed to reduce the costs on generating and distributing electric energy.

He advocates the appointment of a special research committee to study the distribution cost problems.

Water power development should be placed on an economic basis, he said, in view of increasing efficiencies of steam plants.
